PASSENGER DIES; MOTORMAN HELD; CONDUCTOR SOUGHT

Louis A. Stroh Tells His Relatives That He Was Attacked on the Seventh Street Line by Conductor and Pounded on the Head With Ticket Punch.

TROUBLE OCCURED ABOUT A TRANSFER

Telegram Sent to Arrest Missing Man—Wounds Inflicted Oct. 5 in Quarrel About a Transfer—Prisoner Is Silent.

Louis A. Stroh died at his home, 4154 Delmar boulevard, at 4:10 a. m. Monday from blood poisoning, the result of wounds inflicted Oct. 5 in a quarrel with the conductor of a Seventh street car over a transfer. He told his relatives within the last few days that he was struck on the head several times with the conductor's punch. The motorman also had a part in the encounter.

When the police learned of Stroh's death Monday, patrolmen were sent to the home of the conductor, Jesse E. Talbert, 2713 Chippewa street. They were told that Talbert went to Salem, Mo., last Thursday to visit his father. A telegram was sent to the Sheriff of Dent County asking that Talbert be arrested. The motorman, John Hulser, was arrested at his home, 8304 Pennsylvania avenue, and taken to the Wyoming Street Station.

Motorman Is Silent.

Hulser, the motorman, refused to make any statement when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday. He had told the police that he acted only as a peacemaker, and when this was mentioned he reaffirmed it, saying, "Why, certainly," but would say nothing further. He is said to have admitted to the police that he had his controller in his hand, but insisted that he did not strike Stroh with the heavy instrument.

J. Emil Stroh of 5844 Von Versen avenue, Stroh's brother and partner in the teaming business, told the reporter that he expected to employ former Judge Selden P. Spencer to prosecute the street car men and would spare no money or effort in the endeavor to have someone punished.

Miss Caroline Stroh, a sister, seconded the declaration that the family would prosecute the case vigorously. She told how her brother, in the two days of unconsciousness which preceded his death, called frequently, "Don't let him hit me; please don't let him hit me!"

Louis Stroh was 35 years old and was engaged, with his brother, in carrying morning papers from the publication offices to the postoffice and to mail trains at Union Station. He was separated from his wife, Mrs. Rose Stroh, who lived in Denver, but, according to his brother, he was deeply in love with her, and was desirous of a reconciliation. He was on his way to the home of his wife's aunt, Mrs. John B. Roy of 6429 Minnesota avenue, to try to get her aid in bringing his wife back to St. Louis, when the fatal encounter occurred.

Row on the Car.

The fight occurred between the time Stroh took the Seventh street car downtown and the time it reached Wyoming street. The police report says it was over the question whether he had paid his fare, but J. Emil Stroh understood his brother to say it was over a transfer.

According to Stroh's later account of the affair, the conductor attacked him in the aisle of the car with his nickel-plated transfer punch, striking him on the head with it repeatedly. The motorman stopped the car and went back, his controller in his hand. After overcoming Stroh, the crew ran the car on, and when Wyoming street was reached, they stopped and took Stroh to the police station, a block west.

They told the police that Stroh had been drinking. This is denied by his brother, who was with him not long before.

Returned to Work.

At his home Stroh's wounds were treated by Dr. O. C. Raines, and he went back to work. But Oct. 11 Dr. Raines saw that the inflammation was increasing and ordered him to go home and go to bed. He did so and did not afterward rally sufficiently to leave the house. He was unable to go to police court last Friday, and the case against him was continued until Nov. 11. Saturday he became unconscious and did not regain consciousness.

Sheriff Roberts of Dent County said by long-distance telephone Monday to the Post-Dispatch that he had received a telegram asking for Talbert's arrest, but that he knew of no man of that name visiting in Salem.

Telephone connection was later obtained with the home of Talbert's father, Matthew Talbert, near Salem, and it was stated by a member of the family that Jesse Talbert had not been there since last July.

MAN WHO DIED AFTER FIGHT ON STREET CAR

LOUIS A. STROH.

'I HAVE AN IDEAL, A PERFECT, WIFE'

New Yorker Wouldn't Take $10,000,000 for Her or Give 10c for Another.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—When Alfred A. Wright, a New York importer, whose home is in Orange, N. J., read that Judge W. O. Thomas of Kansas City had said from the bench, "There is no such thing as a perfect wife," he immediately wrote to the jurist, "I have a perfect wife. I wouldn't take $10,000,000 for her or give 10 cents for another."

Wright has had his ideal wife for 36 years. "She has never called me a liar," he said, "and has been my inspiration, my helpmeet, my comfort in time of trouble. We have eight children, and she has been the same cheerful, kindly heart in good fortune and bad."

He said that once when he lost a mansion and servants his wife was as sweet tempered as ever and did the washing. "Emma is a good cook and loves her home and children. We never trouble each other with individual troubles unless sure the other can help or advise.

"My wife sat up nights working with the children over their lessons. Such a woman would suffer anything for the sake of the family. She is bound up heart and soul in my success. She always has a kindly word, a smile and some little thing to cheer me."

His wife declared he is the perfect husband, that he has worked 20 years with only two weeks' vacation. "I never saw him angry," she said. "Who couldn't be a perfect wife with such a husband?"

8 MEN ARE KILLED IN ILLINOIS MINE; 15 MORE IN PERIL

10 Brought Up Injured, Those Left Below in Harrisburg Pit Are in Danger of Burning.

BLACK DAMP GAS IGNITED

Weeping Women Run From Town Mile Away to Shaft After Explosion Is Heard.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

HARRISBURG, Ill., Oct. 23.—Eight men were killed, 10 severely wounded were carried up by rescuers, and 15 more are imprisoned by a cave-in, as a result of the explosion of a keg of powder, which ignited black damp gas, at 9 a. m. today in O Gara mine No. 9, a mile south of here. As the gas is still burning it is feared that those imprisoned in the workings may have been burned to death.

That more lives were not lost was because the shift was changing when the explosion occurred. A quarter of an hour later 500 men would have been in the shafts.

Two men, it was found, had been instantly killed and were so burned and torn that they could not be identified. six others, sent to the surface, were so injured that they died within an hour, some at the mouth of the shaft, some in ambulances on the way to the only hospital in Harrisburg, and others in the hospital.

The detonation of the explosion warned the town that an accident had occurred, and the fears of the wives and children of the miners were confirmed when they saw two ambulances gallop toward the mine, followed in a few minutes by an automobile containing physicians and nurses.

Such pitiful scenes as accompanied the Cherry mine disaster ensued. Women and children rushed weeping and crying aloud towards the mine, calling upon the names of sons, husbands and fathers. About the mouth of the shaft the mine officials threw a cordon of employes, who stretched ropes to keep the frantic women back. Some of them, unless restrained, would have leaped into the mine.

As the bodies of the dead and wounded were brought to the surface a shrill wail went up from hundreds of throats, for it was impossible to identify any of the victims, either because of their injuries or because they were rushed without a moment's delay into ambulances and automobiles, to be taken to the hospital.

NORTHWOOD FOUND HERE WITH A GIRL, THEN BOTH VANISH

Wife Left Behind by Son of Wheeling, W. Va., Millionaire, Who Denied Eloping.

TO GET $1 UNDER WILL

Father's Agent Traces Him to West End Room Where Emma Ayers Posed as Wife.

After investigation by William L. Meakin, a manufacturers' agent, showed that Clarence Northwood was in St. Louis with Miss Emma Ayers, the young woman with whom he is said to have eloped from Wheeling, W. Va., Northwood and Miss Ayers suddenly departed Sunday night from Mrs. Jeanette Evans' rooming house at 3868 Delmar boulevard.

They left two trunks which Mrs. Evans is holding as security for $1 worth of gas which they used in pressing their clothing in the 10 days they lived there.

Northwood is 26 years old and has a wife in Wheeling. His father is one of the wealthiest glass manufacturers in the east and is rated in his home town as a millionaire. Meakin is the St. Louis agent for the Northwood products. Word from Wheeling tells that the father has made a will cutting the son off with $1.

Clarence Northwood was sent here by his father's firm to assist Meakin in running the St. Louis agency. When press dispatches were received in St. Louis telling that Northwood had eloped from Wheeling with Miss Ayers, Northwood made Meakin believe that there was no truth in the story and with Meakin he visited newspaper offices Saturday and denied the elopement.

Mrs. Evans told a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday that Northwood and the young woman rented a second-floor front room from her 10 days ago. The following day the young woman told Mrs. Evans that she and Northwood had eloped and that her maiden name was Emma Ayers. She said Northwood's father had objected to their marriage on religious grounds and that they had been married by a Presbyterian minister in a small Eastern town.

Mrs. Evans says that Northwood and the young woman seemed anxious to conceal from Meakin the fact that they were together. Miss Ayers explained to Mrs. Evans that Northwood's father had sent him here to work for Meakin and that if he made good he was to supplant Meakin as the company's St. Louis agent.

Secrecy Is Explained.

"Mr. Northwood doesn't want Mr. Meakin to know he has just been married," Mrs. Evans quotes Miss Ayers as saying. "He is afraid Mr. Meakin wouldn't like it. He might think Mr. Northwood would pay more attention to the business if he was single."

About noon Friday Mrs. Evans says, Northwood called Miss Ayers on the telephone and said something which seemed to greatly agitate the young woman.

"Mr. Northwood is going to bring Mr. Meakin here," she said to Mrs. Evans. "Won't you let me put my trunk and things in another room so that Mr. Meakin won't find any woman's clothing in Mr. Northwood's room?" Mrs. Evans consented to this.

Meakin didn't appear at the rooming house that day, but Saturday at 11 p. m. he arrived there with Northwood. He had received telegraphic instructions from Northwood's father to report whether a women was with Northwood. She says she listened while Northwood passed off the boys' room as his own. Meakin inspected the room and seemed satisfied when he found no woman's clothing. While this inspection was being made Miss Ayers was hiding in a second-floor room.

Sunday afternoon other boarders in the house called Mrs. Evans' attention to newspaper stories of Northwood's elopement from Wheeling with Emma Ayers. Northwood and Miss Ayers were out. When they returned Mrs. Evans showed Northwood the newspaper accounts.

"Don't believe it," he said. "This is my wife, but if you think it best we will go away."

Dispatches from Wheeling say that Northwood's marriage to Miss Rae Cook four years ago was a brilliant society event. The union seemed to be a happy one until recently, when Northwood, it is said, was frequently seen in company with Miss Ayers, a tall, slender brunette.

Northwood's father decided to send him to St. Louis. On the night of Saturday, Oct. 7, Miss Ayers was arrested by Wheeling policemen at the request of relatives who said she had run away from home and was living in apartments in a fashionable residence district.

She was returned to her home. That night Northwood departed for St. Louis. The following day while her parents were at church Miss Ayers disappeared from home. It was learned that she had her trunk shipped to St. Louis and the search for her and Northwood was begun. Meakin being requested to learn if they were together here.

WOMAN ALIVE AS UNDERTAKER ASKS TO GET HER BODY

Verdict of Suicide in Death of Mrs. Campbell at Haywood Apartments.

Investigation Monday into the death Saturday of Mrs. Jessie E. Campbell, 27 years old, also known at the Haywood Apartments, 4217B Olive street, as Mrs. J. Howe, developed that an undertaking company called up the Coroner's office last Thursday, while three physicians were trying to save the woman's life, and asked permission to take charge of the body when she died, as it was understood that she could not recover. The person telephoning said he wanted to get in early with a request for the body.

The inquest held Monday resulted in a verdict of suicide with bichloride of mercury and chloroform. Witnesses said she had become melancholy on account of financial troubles and the fact that a railroad official named Lowe had broken off his relations with her, or had threatened to do so.

Mrs. Campbell, according to the testimony, came to St. Louis three years ago from Jacksonville, Mo. She had been divorced. She was known as Miss Evelyn Jones, as Mrs. Howe and as Mrs. Lowe.

Maid Helps Restore Her.

E. W. Loos testified that he called at Mrs. Campbell's apartment Saturday, Oct. 14, to see about renting a room, and found that she had just taken chloroform. With the aid of the maid he used artificial respiration until there were signs of life and then called a physician.

Mrs. Campbell's sister, Miss Berta C. Fifer, gave the correct name of the dead woman and said that she had "simply adopted" the other names.

Cora McNary, the maid, said that Mrs. Campbell had a telephone conversation with someone the forenoon of the day on which she took the poison. She heard Mrs. Campbell say, "What must I do then; just sit here?"

A little later Mrs. Campbell went to her room and swallowed bichloride of mercury tablets and administered chloroform to herself by saturating a towel with it.

Railway Man as Escort.

Miss Hazel Ball, a manicure, said she had known Mrs. Campbell 18 months as Evelyn Jones and as Mrs. Lowe. A railroad official named Lowe, she said, who was married, had been attentive to Mrs. Campbell and taken her about a great deal, Miss Ball sometimes accompanying them.

In the week that Mrs. Campbell lingered after taking the poison she told Miss Ball that she had had a conversation with Lowe the day that she took the poison. She also stated that Lowe had visited Mrs. Campbell after she took the poison.

DAVIS ACCUSED OF DIVERTING RAILROAD FUNDS

Banks Accuse Former St. Louisan in Reply to Receiver Suit for A. J. & P. Line.

The charge that Edgar M. Davis grossly mismanaged the affairs of the Alton, Jacksonville & Peoria Railroad, and appropriated large sums of the railroad company's funds to his own use, was contained in the belated answer filed by several interested banks in Edwardsville Monday to the receivership suit.

The financial institutions which filed the reply are the Commonwealth Trust Co., the Alton National Bank, the Alton Savings Bank, the Jerseyville National Bank, the Fieldon State Bank, Thomas W. White, T. J. Scott and other directors of the company.

The filers of the answer attack the appointment of Receiver Frank Butler as having been made without proper notification to them, and it is charged that the statement that Butler had previously been manager of the company was incorrect, as he had been manager of a line in Colorado.

They demand that the books, now in the hands of Davis, be returned to the receiver and made accessible to the directors.

The petition also alleges that Butler had previous business dealings with J. J. Cummings of Chicago, one of the largest creditors of the road, and states that Cummings' claim of a $50,000 indebtedness in his favor is not well founded.

Davis is now in California suffering from a nervous breakdown. His St. Louis insurance business has been closed and his home in Kingsbury place has been sold. Mrs. Davis is now at the home of her mother, Mrs. Cross, widow of the founder of the A. J. & P. road, in Jerseyville.

The answer sets forth that Davis resigned Aug. 23 as president, and that the board elected Cary N. Weisiger Jr. to the vacancy. It denies that Davis is a creditor of the company, or that he is the rightful owner of 3444 of the 5190 shares of stock, or of $200,000 worth of the company's bonds.

They Complain Corridor Gives Heat of Merchants' Exchange to Pierce Skyscraper.

The connecting corridor between the Pierce Building and the Merchants' Exchange will be removed and the walls sealed up, if complaining tenants of the Exchange Building have their way.

In winter, it is declared, the newer and bigger building steals heat ruthlessly from the older and smaller one, and the tenants of the latter sit with chilled toes, while those of the former have to keep their windows open.

A revolving door has been placed in the passageway, but the condition, it is declared, has not improved, and the Fire Prevention Bureau has complained that the draft between the buildings increases the fire hazard.

JOHN R. WALSH DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART DISEASE AT HOME

Ex-Banker, Who Was Once Twenty Times a Millionaire, Lived Only Nine Days to Enjoy Freedom After Parole From Leavenworth Federal Prison.

Began to Sink Rapidly Last Week and Relapsed Into Unconsciousness Sunday, When It Was Seen There Was No Hope.

Had Been Sentenced to Five Years for Using Money in His Banks to Promote His Personal Enterprises.

JOHN R. WALSH.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—John R. Walsh, who was twenty times a millionaire when he was one of the financial kings of Chicago, died at his home here this morning, a broken old man, only nine days out of the penitentiary.

The former brilliant financier succumbed at 9:30 a. m. to heart disease. He was yesterday taken seriously ill at noon.

Eight days ago he returned to Chicago from the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., where he had served 18 months of a five-year term for violation of the national banking laws. He was paroled Oct. 14.

The terrific strain of his imprisonment, his dramatic fight for freedom and his final release are supposedly the cause for the failure of his heart. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for several years, but never took this disease seriously. He complained of illness when he arose from bed Sunday and afterward said a physician ought to be called. He ate no breakfast and retired again soon.

The aged financier grew weaker in the afternoon and his condition became so alarming that all the members of his family were called to his home.

Orville E. Babcock, a son-in-law of Walsh, declared after the banker's death, that the end had been hastened by delays in bringing about his release from Leavenworth prison.

"We presented statements made by Dr. Frank Billings and Dr. Joseph A. Capp," said Babcock, "that Walsh was dangerously ill and that further confinement might cause his death. In spite of these, the long delay in his parole resulted."

Walsh Was 74 Years Old.

Walsh was 74 years old. Death came just nine days after his release on parole from the Federal penitentiary where he had served one year, eight months and 26 days of a five-year sentence on a charge of misappropriating the funds of the bank to the use of other enterprises.

Walsh's health failed soon after his entrance to the penitentiary. An immediate movement to obtain his release on a parole was begun by members of his family. Mrs. Mary L. Walsh and his two sons, Richard W. Walsh and John W. Walsh. At that time the examining physician at the penitentiary said Walsh was sufering with hardening of the arteries.

Took Long Auto Ride.

After his release Walsh was thought to have been still further weakened by a long, cold automobile ride from the prison to Kansas City. When he arrived home, on the morning of Oct. 15, Walsh was so ill and weak that he went to bed.

Members of the family announced after the former banker reached home, that he had given up all hopes of regaining his lost position among the leaders of finance and said that he would spend his days at home.

Walsh's son, Richard, to whom he was paroled, became his nominal employer, in accordance with the Government proviso that the "first friend" of a paroled man must guarantee employment.

Family at Bedside.

The former banker was surrounded by all the members of his family when he died. He was stricken with a sinking spell about noon yesterday. Physicians remained with him all night, but he never regained consciousness. When day broke today it was announced by the physicians that he could not recover.

"Death was caused by myocarditis, an inflammation of the heart muscles," said Dr. Joseph H. Lowe, who attended him. "When Mr. Walsh returned from the penitentiary his legs and muscles were swollen badly from the disease. We could not prevail on him to remain in bed daytimes, though, until Wednesday, he was so glad to be home, he insisted on being up around the house."

He is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. L. Blake Baldwin, Mrs. Orville Babcock and Miss Mary Walsh, and his two sons, John and Richard.

Was a Newsboy.

Walsh was born in Cork County, Ireland, and had lived in Chicago for more than 60 years. He was of humble origin, and on his arrival here worked first as a newsboy, gradually holding better positions until he became attached to a bank. Later, when he had acquired wealth, his chief business concern was his group of Chicago banks, the Chicago National, the Equitable Trust Co. and the Home Savings Bank. Among his other properties were the Bedford Quarries Co., the Indiana Southern Coal Co., the Southern Indiana Railway, the Chicago Chronicle and the Northwestern Gas Light and Coke Co.

Withdrawal of money from his banks to finance other enterprises resulted in an indictment following the closing of the banks in 1907. He was found guilty and Dec. 3, 1909, was arrested.

EIGHTH COMET IN 1911 IS ON VIEW NIGHTLY

St. Louis Astronomers Find in East Using Only Opera Glasses.

The eighth comet to make its appearance in 1911 can be seen above the eastern horizon any morning between 4:30 and 5 o'clock. Father Goosse of the St. Louis University and Brother John of Christian Brothers' College, who have been sweeping the heavens with powerful telescopes to catch a glimpse of the terrestrial wanderer, have discovered, to their surprise, that nothing stronger than a pair of opera glasses is needed to get a good view of the comet.

According to Brother John the comet appears to be 25 feet to the left of Venus, and a little lower in the heavens. To the naked eye it appears to be about eight degrees long. The astronomers say it is more brilliant than Halley's comet, which attracted so much attention in 1910.

The comet was first seen by Beljawsky in Russia several months ago. It disappeared for a time, and astronomers have just recently found it.

MONMOUTH CIGAR MAKER RESEMBLED MARZYCK PICTURE

Man Who Bore Likeness Served Term in Illinois Penitentiary, Where Dawson, Who Was Slain, Made Enemy of Convict Whose Escape He Prevented.

TRICK SUSPECTED IN PLACING FLASHLIGHT

Officers Believe It Was Put Behind Home Days After Crime by Real Slayer to Divert Suspicion From Himself.

From a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

MONMOUTH, Ill., Oct. 23.—Several residents of Monmouth told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that they saw strong resemblance between a cigarmaker who worked here several years ago and the photograph of Charles Marzyck, who is accused by his divorced wife of killing five members of the Showman family at Ellsworth, Kan. The similarity was noticed by them when a photograph of Marzyck, printed in the Post-Dispatch, was shown them in an investigation in Monmouth by a Post-Dispatch reporter seeking to verify statements attributed to Mrs. Minnie Vopat, the divorced wife of Marzyck, that Marzyck was in Illinois, possibly at Monmouth, between 1898 and 1902.

Several cigarmakers at Monmouth say that the picture of Marzyck resembles a cigarmaker who worked in Monmouth about ten or twelve years ago. They declare, however, that he did not go by the name of Marzyck at that time, and they cannot remember his name. There is no record in Monmouth showing the name of Marzyck as an employe of any of the cigar factories there, or as a member of the cigarmakers' union.

The flashlight found near the scene of the Dawson tragedy, to which importance has been attached as connecting the Monmouth crime with that in Colorado Springs, bears the letters "Col. Spr. Sept. 4th," scratched on one end. The letters apparently were scratched with a knife and are not distinct.

The flashlight and a piece of gas pipe 18 inches long were found in a pile of hollow tile bricks at the rear of the Dawson premises Oct. 14, two weeks after the crime and after the details of the Colorado Springs and Kansas tragedies had been published. Red spots near the end of the pipe indicated that it might have been the weapon used, and it was sent to Chicago for analysis of the spots.

Officials Suspect Trick.

State's Attorney G. C. Hillyer and city officials of Monmouth told a Post-Dispatch reporter that they are of the opinion that the flashlight and gas pipe were placed in the pile of bricks by the real slayer of the Showman family for the purpose of strengthening the theory that the Kansas suspect committed the crime here, thus diverting suspicion from himself.

In support of this belief the officials say that for two weeks following the killing of the Dawsons it rained almost incessantly in Monmouth, and that if the flashlight and gas pipe had been concealed in the bricks by the murderer at the time of the crime the effects of the dampness would clearly be shown on the instruments. Neither the flashlight nor gas pipe shows exposure to the weather.

Miss Nellie Wiedenbauer of Monmouth said that the photograph of Marzyck in a few particulars resembles that of a man with "shifty, piercing eyes," she saw in Monmouth at 9 p. m. on the night the Dawson crime was committed. She said she saw the same man the next day when she was on her way to church. Nobody else could be found in Monmouth who had seen the stranger.

Mark A. Yates, who has been a cigarmaker in Monmouth 20 years, said the picture of Marzyck resembled a cigarmaker who worked in Monmouth about years ago, and who left Monmouth after he stole a union card of a cigarmaker and had trouble with the union. This man, he said, had served a term in prison at Joliet on a charge of forgery and larceny, and about eight years ago he left Monmouth, was charged with killing a policeman in Peoria. He was acquitted, Yates said.

Miss Maud Dawson, one of the survivors of the family, who was not at home on the night of the tragedy, has told the officials that the family had not killed any chickens within two weeks before the crime. She said that she had never known of an ax being kept in the outhouse. The Dawson family had several axes about the place, but the girl is unable to say whether the ax was one of them.

No Motive for Crime.

The only connection between the Colorado Springs, Ellsworth, and Monmouth tragedies is the similiarity of the crimes, in the opinoin of Monmouth officials. They say they believe Dawson and his wife and daughter were killed by someone in the vicinity of Monmouth. They admit that they have so far been unable to find a motive for the crime.

The only known motive is a vague rumor freely discussed since Dawson was killed that at the time Dawson was serving a term of a year in prison at Joliet in 1900 on a charge of forgery he had trouble with a convict whom he prevented from making a break for liberty. The rumor is that the convict threatend revenge on Dawson when he was released from the prison.

FINGER PRINTS OFFICERS' HOPE

They Are to Be Compared With Those of Suspects in the Kansas Murder.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ELLSWORTH, Kan., Oct. 23.—On the finger prints left on a bucket in the Showman home hangs the hope of officials to connect Charles Marzyck with the murder of the Showmans.

Any possibility that they will be able to show that the slayer was connected with the Ellsworth, Ill., or the Colorado Springs crimes also is based on these finger prints.

Officers at work on the case here admit that their case against the ex-convict is weakening.

The finger prints apparently were left by the murderer when he washed his hands after the crime here.

D. E. Gillson of the Kansas City staff of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, who has been here since Wednesday investigating the murder of the Showman family here, says that the finger prints are the only positive evidence by which the assassin may be identified.

A basis for revenge against the Showmans was established by Mrs. Vopat. No basis for the other accusations was given, further than that she once received letters from Marzkek, then her husband in Illinois. She thinks from that fact that he may have made enemies at Monmouth, Ill., where William E. Dawson, his wife and daughter, were murdered with an ax two weeks before the murders here. She and Marzyck were married in Denver and he has relatives in Colorado. The first of the three similar crimes was committed at Colorado Springs, where Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wayne and their child and Mrs. A. J. Burnham and her two children, living in adjoining homes, were killed.

Vopats Are Armed.

Mrs. Vopat said she was unable to give any cause for the other two crimes. She does not know the families involved, and says she has never heard her husband mention their names. When a Post-Dispatch reporter drove to the Vopat home five miles southwest of Ellsworth, Vopat and two men friends, all armed with loaded shotguns, stepped to the door, such is the terror hereabouts of a return of the mysterious ax murderer. Constant guard is kept over the home.

Officers at Ellsworth are receiving letters from cranks in different parts of the country. Two letters have been received, one by Marshal Merritt, and one by Mayor Meek.

The letters are signed Masar-Shalal-Rash-Bass. Both were mailed at Denver. The one to Mayor Meek was dated Oct. 12, but was mailed, according to the postmarks, at 11:30 a. m. Oct. 16, four hours before the discovery of the crime at Ellsworth.

Gov. Stubbs has directed a finger-print expert from the Lansing penitentiary to come to Ellsworth, and another from the Santa Fe Railroad's staff. They are expected today. They will photograph the prints, if possible, and compare them with finger prints of suspects.

County Attorney Bartlett and Sheriff Bradshaw say they attach much importance to the arrest of John Schmederman, now in jail here. Both say they do not believe that he committed the crime, but that stained clothing taken from the house of tragedy was turned over to him, and they suspect that he may be shielding the murderer, perhaps through fear.

A shirt, on which the murderer apparently had wiped his hands after the crime, has been identified as the one worn by Showman the day before the murder. He was asleep, and it was on a chair in his room when the crime was committed. This was found in a room at the Baker Hotel here, where Schmederman stopped the night of the killing. This much has been admitted by Schmederman, who also is known as Smith, according to the authorities. He arrived in Ellsworth from Junction City, Kan., on a westbound Union Pacific train at 12:25 a. m. the Sunday of the murder.

Colombia Prepares for War.

PANAMA, Oct. 23.—Recent advices confirm the report that Colombia is preparing for war. The Colombian Congress has unanimously voted a credit of $3,500,000 gold to fortify Tumaco, a port in the southwest part of the republic, and Buena Ventura and for the purchase of arms and ammunition.

CHILD COULD NOT EAT

Constant Cough Weakened Him

A healthy child ought to be "hungry as a bear" at meal time. Poor appetite means failing health.

The best thing you can do for a child that won't eat is to give teaspoonful doses of Vinol. This is wonderfully good in bringing back lost appetite and it is so pleasant that children take it eagerly.

Mrs. E. Stanger of Bronx Borough, N. Y., says: "My little son, three years old, had bronchitis for a year. The cough disturbed his rest and he lost his appetite.

"I gave him Vinol for a while and it stopped his coughing and brought back his appetite. His health has improved wonderfully. He likes Vinol."

It is the tonic iron and streugthening cod liver elements in Vinol (it contains no oil), that makes it so strengthening and blood-enriching. It makes weak, pale children strong and rosy, and we guarantee it to do exactly what we tell you—if it does not you get your money back. Chester Kent & Co., Chemists. DR. HYDE ON TRIAL SECOND TIME FOR SWOPE'S MURDER

Faithful Wife Appears in Court by Side of the Accused Physician.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 23.—Dr. B. Clark Hyde was today for a second time placed on trial charged with murdering Col. Thomas H. Swope by poison. The verdict of the first jury which on May 16, 1910, found Dr. Hyde guilty and fixed his punishment at life imprisonment, was reversed and the case remanded for retrial by the Missouri Supreme Court, April 11, last.

Just before noon attorneys for the defense entered an objection to the manner in which the venire had been drawn and moved that the entire list be discarded and new jurymen summoned. The State did not oppose the motion and the Court ordered the jurymen discharged and gave instructions that a new venire of 100 men be drawn and summoned to be present in court tomorrow afternoon.

Technical reasons were advanced by the defense to prove that the first venire had been drawn illegally.

Wife By His Side.

Accompanied by his wife, Dr. Hyde arrived at Judge E. E. Porterfield's court shortly before the case was called this morning at 9 o'clock. Judge Porterfield is hearing the case on a change of venue from Judge Latshaw's court.

The defendant is represented by Frank P. Walsh, John H. Cleary, R. R. Brewster, W. T. Johnson and John H. Lucas. United States Senator James A. Reed is acting as special prosecutor, assisting Prosecutor Virgil Conkling. Attorney John M. Atwood, who was employed by the Swope heirs to aid the prosecution at the first trial, has not been retained in this one.

The sole charge upon which Dr. Hyde is being tried is the alleged murder of Col. Swope. Collateral issues admitted as testimony at the first trial have been barred by the order of the Supreme Court. The first trial lasted six weeks and most of this time was taken up by testimony touching on matters that will be eliminated this time.

The first tragedy in the Swope home was the death of Moss Hunton, Oct. 1, 1909. Dr. Hyde was charged with negligence in bleeding him. Two days later Col. Swope died in convulsions. Testimony was that Dr. Hyde a few minutes previously had given him a capsule alleged by the State to have contained cyanide of potassium and strychnine.

Secret Autopsie Made.

An epidemic of typhoid fever then started in the Swope home and on Dec. 6, Chrisman Swope died under conditions similar to those which attended the death of Col. Swope. The physician was accused of spreading typhoid germs at the house. Secret autopsies were held on the bodies of the two Swopes in January and toxicologists said that they had found poison. The State alleged Dr. Hyde's motive was to add to his wife's share of the estate of Col. Swope, amounting to $10,000,000, which grew larger every time an heir died. The inability of Dr. Hyde to explain his purchases of cyanide, which has no recognized medicinal use was chiefly responsible for his first conviction.

CONVENTIONS WILL BE HELD THIS WEEK

To Choose Candidates for Special Election of Councilman Nov. 10.

Republican conventions will be held in each of the 28 wards of St. Louis Tuesday night to select delegates to a city convention Wednesday to nominate a candidate for the Council to succeed William Charles Schutz, resigned. The Council election will be held Nov. 10, three days after the special bond issue election.

Three Republicans are mentioned as possible nominees. They are Henry W. Peters, Luther Ely Smith and H. C. Grenner.

The Democratic candidate will be nominated at 10 a. m. Tuesday. Mass meetings will be held in each ward Monday night to select delegates to the convention. The Democratic convention will be held in the Sawyer Building, 810 Chestnut street.

PARKINSON GETS DIVORCE

Charges Wife Deserted, Saying He Was Not Good Enough for Her.

Judge Withrow Monday granted a default divorce to Charles T. Parkinson of 119 Ferry street, who alleged that Margaret Parkinson deserted him April 3, 1910, less than a year after their marriage.

Parkinson testified that his wife is now with her parents in San Francisco and that her reason for leaving him was that she thought he was not good enough for her.

His attorney, Jones Parker, introduced a letter from Mrs. Parkinson in which she said she was glad her husband was suing for divorce as she could not live with a man below her station.

NO HALYARD DIVORCE

A divorce was denied Mrs. Caroline Halyard by Judge Shields in the Circuit Court Monday. Mrs. Halyard alleged incompatibility. When the case was tried Halyard cross-examined his wife and her witnesses.

Halyard testified that he and his wife were happy until she left their home to act as housekeeper for Charles R. Caspar of 4054 Labadie avenue.

M'NAMARA SIDE LOSES ITS FIGHT AGAINST TALESMAN

Court Holds Venireman Competent, Even Though He Believes Dynamite Was Used.

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 23.—Judge Bordwell announced today that the law left him no option but to refuse a challenge directed by the defense in the McNamara murder trial against Talesman George W. McKee, who said he believed the Los Angeles explosion was caused by dynamite.

The defense contended, among other things, that the Times explosion was caused by gas, and that anyone believing in the dynamite theory could not be considered qualified to try James B. McNamara for the death of Charles J. Haggerty, a machinist killed in that disaster.

"From McKee's testimony," rules Bordwell, "I cannot come to any other conclusion but that he will act fairly and impartially, and though he has opinions on the case he appears able to set them aside. Therefore the challenge will not be allowed."

"Will that govern all cases of jurors who have an opinion on the cause?" inquired Attorney Joseph Scott of the defense.

"Why do you ask that question?" asked the Judge.

"Well, we want to know where we are at."

"Do you think I would act partially to one side or another? We'll pass on each thing as we come to it," replied the Court abruptly.

The attorneys for the defense were dissatisfied with the ruling, and argued with the Court that if McKee was allowed to act, believing that the building was blown up by dynamite the prosecution would have just so much less of its case to prove to him.

Attorney Darrow read some of McKee's answers.

"I have given the matter careful consideration," Judge Bordwell said, interrupting him.

"All we can do, then, is to save our exception," said Attorney Darrow and he tossed on the table the record from which he had been reading.

Within a few minutes after court opened Talesman A. C. Robinson and A. R. McIntosh had been excused by Judge Bordwell, leaving only 23 talesmen and veniremen. Both men said they were opposed to conviction in a capital case on circumstantial evidence.

DYSPEPSIA-PROOF.

How Any Meal Can Be Thoroughly Enjoyed by Any Stomach.

Costs You Nothing to Try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Men, as a rule, are first discovered by their enemies. Their antagonists turn on the searchlight, and the proof of merit will lie in being able to stand the flash.

It was only in this way that Mr. White ever knew that dyspepsia was one of Mr. Black's worst enemies. Sitting face to face at a two-by-four table, he handed his afflicted friend, the bill of fare:

Oyster Cocktail. Stuffed Olives.
Boston Clam Chowder.
Strained Gumbo.
Sirloin Steak with Mushrooms.
Roast Beef Hash.
Boiled Ox Tongue with Sauerkraut.
Lobster a la Newburg.
Baked Pork and Beans.
Combination Crab Salad.
Hot Mince Pie.
Pineapple Fritters.

Mr. White ordered a "little of each." Mr. Dyspepsia Black ordered crackers and a glass of milk. "I had such a big breakfast this morning," he said, "that I'll just take a bite to keep you company." But Mr. White could not be deceived: "I am afraid you can't stand the gleam, Mr. Black. Why don't you say you have dyspepsia and be done with it? You'll always have that hungry look anyhow as long as you have dyspepsia. Now listen. My stomach was in just as bad condition as yours at one time. But now I can eat anything, at any time. For instance, this clam chowder or sirloin steak or even the lobster would be just as welcome to my stomach as your crackers and milk. You don't realize how this dyspepsia business is robbing you of your spirit, of your energy and ability to think quickly. I can't help notice it. You haven't the cheer and sociability you had three months ago. Now I'll tell you what to do," and thereat the cheerful Mr. White took a vial from his pocket and extracted a wee tablet. "There, there is a tablet that contains an ingredient, one grain of which digests 3000 grains of food. For even the worst dyspeptic it's the only thing that really gives relief. The reason is it relieves the stomach of nearly all the work it has to do, digests everything in the stomach and stimulates the gastric juice. I can't get along without them. They are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them anywhere on earth for 50c a package."

Yes, it is true, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets absolutely stop heartburn, nausea, indigestion, dyspepsia of the worst type, sour stomach, bloaty feeling and all eructations and irritation, and freshen and invigorate the stomach. They cheer you up, and make you get all the good there is in your food. You will forget you ever had a stomach to worry you.

SPECIAL SESSION OF GRAND JURY IN RICHESON CASE

"Not a Guess Nor a Surmise" in Story of Death of Avis Linnell, for Whose Murder Cambridge Pastor Is Held, Declares a Police Investigator.

"I SHALL STAND BY HIM TO THE END"

Rich Father of Accused Man's Fiancee Backs Defense—Attempt to Place Guilt Upon Another Suitor of Music Student Expected.

By Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—The evidence against the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, the Cambridge Baptist minister, charged with the murder of Avis Linnell, the young music student, will be presented before the Suffolk County grand jury at a special session on Thursday of this week. This announcement was made this afternoon by District Attorney Pelletier. Chief Joseph Dugan of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation announced today that "in the whole story of the case so far there is not a guess nor a surmise."

It was intimated from the District Attorney's office that if the defense should attempt to develop the Government's case against Richeson, adjournment would be asked for and a special session of the grand jury convened at once. The police admitted today that they needed further information regarding the place of the alleged meeting on the fatal Saturday between Richeson and Miss Linnell.

Comparison of Poison.

A more careful analysis of the stomach of the dead woman is being made by Prof. Whitney of the Harvard Medical School.

The authorities have decided to compare the poison found in the girl's stomach with the cyanide of potassium kept in stock by William H. Hahn, the druggist of Newton Center, who claims to have sold to Richeson a supply sufficient to kill 10 persons.

A representative of the law office of Dunbar & Rachemann, counsel for the accused minister, visited the jail today and had an extended conference with Richeson.

"I have just left my friend and he has given me some medicine."

This statement, declared to have been made by Avis Linnell to a girl friend two hours before she was found dying from cyanide of potassium poisoning in a bathroom of the Young Women's Christian Association Building, is regarded by Deputy Superintendent of Police Watts as the clinching evidence against the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, who is confined in a cell in the Charles Street Jail, charged with the murder of the Hyannis music student. Watts today discussed frankly this latest development in the case.

"This evidence was all that was lacking," he said, "and it came to me in the same way that we got the testimony of Hahn, the druggist, who said he sold cyanide of potassium to the preacher. It was brought about by the publicity that has been given the case.

Girl's Statement.

"The girl to whom Miss Linnell made the statement met me by appointment outside my office and told me of the conversation she had with Miss Linnell. I am not at liberty to reveal the name of my informant, but it may be that she will not be brought into the hearing on the 31st, as we have plenty of evidence without her testimony, on which to hold Richeson.

"'It was between 4:30 and 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon that I met Avis on the street,' she said. 'She was smiling happily as we met. We chatted for a moment about trivial things, and then she said to me: "I have just left my friend and he has given me some medicine. I must hurry home now and take it and then I shall feel better."'

"When she referred to her friend I knew, of course, that she meant the Rev. Mr. Richeson, as she always spoke of him in that way, and he was the only man she ever had anything to do with. She did not say what the medicine was for, and I supposed it was for headache, as she had lately complained of having headaches.

Seemed Happy Again.

"She seemed to be happier than I had seen her lately, as if a weight had been cast off her mind, but I did not attach any special significance to what she said until I read that she was dead. Even then it didn't occur to me that there might be anything wrong until I read of the purchase of the cyanide of potassium by Richeson, and then I remembered what she told me about having got some medicine from him. That is all I know, but if it helps to avenge her death I shall be truly thankful.'

"I have investigated the girl who told me that," continued Supt. Watts, "and find she is entirely reliable and responsible. The case is so clear that it seems almost a waste of time to try to round up any more witnesses.

"It is true that we have not been able to locate the couple definitely at the Sea Grill Restaurant that Saturday afternoon, although the waiters and other people there agree that they frequently ate there, but now that we have the other evidence, the locating of the precise place where they met has much less importance than it had a few days ago."

Fiancee Loyal to Him.

The family of the wealthy girl, Viola Edmands, who was to wed Richeson, stands staunchly by him.

"We still believe Mr. Richeson innocent," Moses Grand Edmands, Miss Violet's father, told the Post-Dispatch correspondent, "and I shall stand by him to the end."

"Does that mean that you have evidence that has not been made public that shows Richeson in a better light?" was asked.

"I absolutely refuse to discuss the case," was the reply.

Philip R. Dunbar, son of former Superior Court Judge James R. Dunbar, was equally firm in refusing to make any facts public that might aid Richeson's case.

"When I say that I am defending Mr. Richeson, that should be enough to make it clear that I am not going to talk to the newspapers," he said.

Won't Discuss Defense.

"If you can prove, for instance, that your client was not in Boston the Friday afternoon before Miss Linnell's death, when, it is said, he was seen in the South Station with her, is it not due to Richeson to give him the benefit of your information in the minds of the public?" he was urged. As a matter of fact, it is now pretty well established that the Hyannis brakeman, who says he saw the girl and her preacher sweetheart together that afternoon, is mistaken in his date, if not in his identification of the minister, who appears to have been attending a Sunday school meeting near Providence that afternoon.

I won't discuss the case," said the lawyer.

Meanwhile the Baptist preacher in his cell refused to make any statement to the police. He was reported by the keeper as quite cheerful today. He had his meals sent in to him from a restaurant.

Miss L. V. Richeson, a sister of the imprisoned clergyman, arrived here Saturday night from Saranac Lake, N. Y., where she is a hospital nurse. She expressed complete confidence in her brother's innocence. She is understood to be a guest at Brookline of the Edmands. Another of his four sisters is expected to arrive within a few days from Virginia.

Flowers Strewn Over Grave.

Down in Hyannis the Rev. Clarence Francis, who succeeded Richeson as pastor of the little Baptist church, failed to mention the tragedy in his sermon Sunday, but at the Universalist Church the Rev. E. A. Hoyt uttered a solemn warning to the mothers of Hyannis to be more watchful of the welfare of their daughters. In Richeson's Cambridge church the acting pastor made no reference to the subject.

The Linnell family did not attend church but spent the morning in the cemetery strewing fresh flowers on the grave of Avis Linnell. The mother is still so overcome with grief that she is on the verge of collapse. A report that the girl's body would be exhumed was denied by Medical Examiner Leary.

"There is no possible reason to exhume the body," Leary told the Post-Dispatch correspondent. "The autopsy was thorough. From the first there was no doubt that she had died from a big dose of cyanide of potassium. Her stomach is now being analyzed and we shall soon know the exact amount of poison she took."

FORMER SUITOR TO BE ACCUSED

Private Detectives Said to Have Been Employed by the Edmands Family.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Oct. 23.—Insanity will not be the defense of the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson, when he is brought to trial, accused of the murder of Miss Avis Linnell by cyanide of potassium, says a morning paper. There will be four phases of the defense, and the most amazing will be the attempt of private detectives employed by the Edmands family to place the guilt upon a former suitor of the pretty music student, whom they will charge with the responsibility for the fear of disgrace that sent the 19-year-old Hyannis girl to her grave.

This information—the first inkling of what form the defense of the Cambridge clergyman will take—was given by a person close to Moses Grant Edmands, father of the prisoner's fiancee, and who will play a prominent part in the trial.

Justice Should Be Swift, Declares a Boston Minister.

Two Boston ministers discussed the Richeson case from their pulpits last night. The Rev. Allan A. Stockdale, pastor of the Union Congregational Church, declared that Richeson had placed the ministers of the city under a cloud similar to that over bankers after a defalcation.

"But I have the utmost confidence in the courts of Massachusetts that justice will be done, and that swiftly" he added. "I feel sure that justice will be as swift as it was in the famous Crippen case in London, and the Beattie case in Virginia. That the murder was premeditated and cold-blooded seems to me positive after the disclosures that have been made."

The Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, a pastor of the accused man's own denomination, urged the fullest investigation, and declared that if his brother clergyman was found to have committed the deed charged, the fact that he was a clergyman should mark him as ten times more deserving of punishment.

TERMINAL INNING IN U. S. SUPREME COURT IS OPENED

Priest Denies Federal Charge That Association Is in Restraint of Trade.

CROW SPEAKS IN MORNING

History Cited to Show Organization Violates Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—E. C. Crow, representing the Government, today resumed his argument in the United States Supreme Court in the case of the United States against the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis. He gave a detailed history of the formation of the monopoly that followed the organization of the Terminal Association by Jay Gould.

Justice Lurton asked Crow a number of questions to bring out information concerning the bridges over the Mississippi River at St. Louis. He wanted to know how many bridges there are. He asked Crow if he had a map showing the situation. Crow answered that the record contained a map, but he could not say which volume it was in. Chief Justice White suggested that a suspended map would help the argument. In the meantime the clerk brought the record map and it was passed among the judges.

Consolidation Story Reviewed.

Crow told the court that the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge was gobbled up by the Terminal Association. He reviewed the story of the consolidation of all the transfer companies and the fight of George Gould to obtain control of the Wiggins company to keep the Rock Island road was described. Crow said it was one of the greatest financial wars in the history of St. Louis.

This, he said, was followed by a consolidation of the forces warring over the Terminal properties. The railroads not in the combination had one of two courses left to them—they had to join the combination or provide independent crossings. The result was, all joined the association.

Crow argued that trade had been restrained to an unreasonable degree by the Terminal Association and the six defendant railroads and that the Sherman law had been violated. "There has been exclusion, not only restraint," said Crow.

All the contracts from 1889, when Jay Gould induced the six railroads to go into the Terminal Association, were cited to prove this charge.

"The purpose of the agreement of 1889 was to control the commerce between Missouri and Illinois, over the Mississippi River at St. Louis," said the attorney. "This purpose has been carried out from that day to the present. There is both restraint and a monopoly."

Justice Asks Questions.

Justice Lamar asked Crow how the rates of the Terminal Association of today compared with those of 1889. The answer was that after this suit was filed, a partial reduction was made, but no general reduction.

Crow said that the testimony in this case would show that the traffic associations of the country have divided up the country and fixed arbitrary rates. He declared that the Central Traffic Association forbade the Burlington road from issuing a through bill of lading from the great lakes to St. Louis. The bills had to read "East St. Louis."

Crow closed at 1:45 and H. S. Priest followed for the Terminal Association. He said the Terminal Association had declared no dividends and was not organized to make profits.

Cites Assembly Approval.

The stock of the association is owned by 14 railroads. Priest said that his client purchased the Merchants' Bridge with the consent and approval of the St. Louis Assembly. He read an ordinance to prove his assertion. The city, he argued, considered the consolidation of the two associations was in behalf of commerce.

Priest told the Court that the Supreme Court of Missouri declined to revoke the charter of the Terminal Association.

At 2 o'clock the court recessed.

TAFT OFF AGAIN AFTER SUNDAY REST

PIERRE, S. D., Oct. 23.—After a quiet Sunday in Pierre, President Taft left today for the central and northern part of the State where he will be the guest of several South Dakota towns.

The President was the guest last night of Congressman Burke and following breakfast at the Burke home this morning he gave a short talk to school children of the city. Just before his train left Taft made a second speech from the rear platform of his private car.

Huron, Aberdeen and several other towns are down on the schedule of today's stopping place for the presidential train in this State.

Louisville Plans Big Time for Butt.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 23.—Probably at no stop in the 16,000-mile "swing" will President Taft be asked to give up as much of the honor of an occasion as he will in Louisville, former home of Major Archibald Butt. Plans of the Press Club of Louisville provide for separating "Archie" from the President as soon after their arrival as possible and making him the honor guest of at least one function. Major Butt formerly was a Louisville newspaper man, and while the Press Club will join with commercial organizations in giving the President a real Kentucky reception, it was decided, in view of past affiliations, to give Major Butt an entertainment all his own.

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives or publishes news gathered by the Associated Press.

ROBBERS HOLD UP CAFE AND GET $4.25

Lone Waiter Fires Shot at Two Men, but They Escape.

Two roughly clad men entered Joseph Kalistone's restaurant, 707 North Twenty-First street at 4:50 a. m. Monday, and ordered coffee. Chris Nicholas, a waiter, was drawing the coffee when the customers ordered him to hold up his hands.

Nicholas obeyed and while one of the robbers covered him with a revolver the other stepped behind the counter and took $4.25 from the cash register. The robbers then departed and as they were passing through the door Nicholas grabbed a revolver from beneath the counter and fired a shot at them.

LABOR DEMANDS NEW INQUIRY IN COURT PLASTERING

Central Union Calls Investigation by Board of Public Improvements a Farce.

An investigation of the Municipal Courts plaster job by the House of Delegates was demanded by the Central Trades and Labor Union Sunday. The union declared the investigation by the Board of Public Improvements, whose duty it was to enforce the specifications in the contract, was a farce.

The subject was brought up in a report of the Legislative Committee, which declared that an effort would be made to choke down the throats of the public that it got a better job by using inferior material than that prescribed in the specifications.

"If a court of inquiry composed of those who are a party to the inquiry can give a fair and impartial trial and render an impartial and unprejudiced verdict, then heaven help us to believe that there is some show in hell for the sinner," the report read.

This feature of the report was directed against the Board of Public Improvements. The labor leaders asked the House of Delegates to make the investigation, declaring that such investigations were legislative functions. Sarcastic reference was made to the investigations by the Board of Public Improvements, and the opinion was voiced that the board was trying to usurp the powers of the Municipal Assembly.

ALLAN P. RICHARDSON FACES TRIAL TODAY

Former Superintendent of Industrial School Is Charged With Larceny and Embezzlement.

Allan P. Richardson, former superintendent of the city Industrial School, was arraigned in Judge Taylor's division of Criminal Court Monday, for trial on charges of grand larceny and embezzlement. He was indicted on those charges and on the charge of obtaining money by false pretenses, at the time of his removal as superintendent a year ago. The false pretenses charge was recently dismissed.

The morning session was taken up in selecting a jury. Charles P. Johnson, C. Orrick Bishop and Andrew C. Maroney are Richardson's lawyers. Assistant Circuit Attorneys Ferris and Griffin are in charge of the prosecution.

Richardson is charged with carrying seven names on the payroll of the school after the persons had left the city's employ. His defense will be that, while he did not at all times present a correct payroll, he did not appropriate to his own use any of the money obtained by the so-called padding of the roll, but applied it to needs of the school which were not otherwise provided for.

The boys' band, he will contend was kept up in this manner. He will introduce as character witnesses a number of well known business men and several former inmates of the Industrial School.

James Adkins, secretary and treasurer of the United Railways Co., was challenged by the prosecution as a member of the jury panel on the ground that he was an old acquaintance of Richardson, and that Richardson's son is now in the employ of the United Railways Co. Richardson was formerly division superintendent of the Laclede and Market lines.

SOCIETY NEWS

THE marriage of Miss Lennie Scharff and Harry Sundeim of Philadelphia, which will take place Monday evening, will be one of the important nuptial affairs in the fashionable Jewish set.

It will be a small wedding, taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Scharff, of 5225 Lindell boulevard, at 6:30 o'clock. The marriage service will be read by the Rev. Samuel Sale, rabbi of Shaare-Emeth Temple, in the presence of the family and friends. All the arrangements will be quite simple as the Sharffs are in mourning.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Leo Bauman will be her matron of honor and Bates Levy of Philadelphia will serve the bridegroom as best man.

There will be several ushers who will hold the ribbons leading from the stairway to a bower of flowers and ferns to form an aisle through which the bride will pass. They will be Messrs. Oscar Weyl, Stanley Foltz of Philadelphia and Messrs. Edgar Lewis, Jeff Wolford, Clarence Scharff, Edward and Sidney Scharff.

The bride will wear a gown of white satin with hand embroidery done in seed pearls around the edge of the skirt and the long square train that falls from the shoulders.

The top of the high waisted bodice is elaborately trimmed with rose point lace and she will wear a veil of lace caught into a Juliette cap under a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet will be of white orchids and valley lilies.

After their wedding tour in the East Mr. Sundheim and his bride will return to St. Louis to reside and will be at home at 4437 McPherson avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Percival Chubb have returned from their summer home at West Salisbury, Vt., and are at 4533 Westminster place for the winter.

Miss Maynita Semmes, daughter of R. E. Semmes of Memphis, Tenn., is here visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. Malcolm Semmes of 5515 Cabanne avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jackson of McPherson avenue departed Thursday for New York and Atlantic City, whence they will go to New Orleans for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rudisill of St. Louis, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Bess E. Rudisill, to Earl J. Leech of Detroit, Mich.

The ceremony took place at the residence of the bridegroom, Thursday evening, October 19th, and was performed by the Rev. Wm. T. Jaques of the Trumbull Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Leech will be at home after November 1, at 77 Commonwealth avenue, Detroit.

Miss Marie Trorlicht gave a cut-glass shower Saturday afternoon, in honor of Miss Beth de Prato, whose engagement to Mr. F. J. Hall of Dayton, O., has just been announced. Those present were:

Mrs. Jeannette Gillespie, Mrs. von Koerner, Misses Corinne Becker, Sarah Reynolds, Beth de Prato, Marie Trorlicht, Marguerite Bollman, Katherine Radcliffe, Grace Hennessy.

The first of the semi-monthly dinner dances at the Buckingham Hotel will be given Halloween.

Mrs. William C. Brownlee and her daughter, Miss Isabelle Brownlee, who recently returned from Europe, are visiting the former's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Doan of Portland place.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin L. Bass of 2831 Chippewa street celebrated their wooden wedding last Wednesday evening, Oct. 18. Guests included a number of relatives and friends.

The marriage of Miss Alice Bernardine Kretzer and Carl Alexis Herbig will be solemnized Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock at St. Margaret's Church. A dinner for the bridal party and immediate [illegible] at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Kretzer, will follow the ceremony, after which a large reception will be held from 8 until 10 o'clock. Mr. Herbig and his bride will be at home after Dec. 1 at 1745 Waverly place.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Elliot Jr. and their daughter, Miss Georgia Elliot, have returned from New York, where they stopped for a short time on their way home from abroad. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mallinckrodt are staying with them until they go to their own home.

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Lucie B. Warriner, daughter of Mrs. Leonora Hoffmann of Collinsville, Ill., and Llewellyn G. Morgan, which took place at the home of the bride's mother in Collinsville, Oct. 10. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Adam Schreppel, an old friend of the family, now Justice of the Peace. Only the nearest relatives and a few friends were present. Mr. Morgan and his bride are making their home with Mrs. Hoffmann.

BLOOD POISONING STOPPED

Newark Man Uses Resinol When All Other Remedies Fail

The history of this case is no different from that of thousands of others. What will do one good will act in the same way for you. Read his letter:

"I can speak in the highest terms of Resinol Ointment. I first used it for a case of blood-poisoning where all other ointments failed. I found Resinol successful and have with great satisfaction recommended it to all my friends.

"I find Resinol Soap the best for irritations of the skin.

"FREDERICK J. COOK,
"Newark, N. J."

Not only does Resinol relieve blood-poisoning, but is wonderful in its action on skin affected by poison ivy. Resinol Ointment is a positive remedy for all skin troubles, from the pimple and scratch to more serious skin diseases, such as eczema, piles, burns, scalds, boils, pimples, cuts, sores and all abrasions of the skin. It is also the best and quickest relief for itching and inflamed piles, stopping irritation the moment it is applied. It is as easy to apply as vaseline or cold cream and the result is instantaneous relief. Resinol Soap is another household necessity. It is the personification of purity, antiseptic and medical, and yet as pleasant and soothing to the skin as the highest grade of imported toilet soap. It prevents many skin troubles, including blackheads, pimples and chapped hands. It is especially good for cleansing the scalp and shampooing, and is recommended by physicians and nurses for baby's bath. The Resinol preparations are sold by all druggists. Send for free sample to Dept. 79, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

Wake Up With a "Dark Brown Taste?"

Get Rid of It! Run for OLIVE TABLETS

There isn't the slightest need to wake up any morning with a "brown mouth." Ugh! No need to describe it.

Dr. Edwards has made "brown mouth" a thing of the past in thousands of homes with his little Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver and bowels, never has "a dark brown taste," a bad breath, a pimply face, constipation of any other form of bowel or liver disorder.

Take one just the moment you suspect you are constipated or that your liver is out or order.

Thousands take one at bedtime every night just to keep the bowels regular, the liver in order, the mouth clean and the breath pure and sweet.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent 17 years in practice and in laboratory experiments before he perfected Olive Tablets.

Why don't you try them instead of the severe kind of laxatives that gripe and only effect temporary relief?

At all drug stores in neat pocket packages. At 10c and 25c.

Made by the Olive Tablet Company, Portsmouth, Ohio, or Columbus, Ohio. Dr. F. M. Edwards, President. (60)

BRIDGE APPROACH OFFERED BY EAST SIDE CO. FOR $1

Alton & Mississippi Belt Line Places Proposition Before St. Louis Delegates.

Letters setting forth the advantages of the site for the east side free bridge approaches, offered to the city by the Alton & Mississippi River Belt Railway and Transportation Co. for a consideration of $1, were sent Monday to all members of the House of Delegates by Stern & Haberman, attorneys for the company.

The right of way offered free by the company consists of a strip 100 feet wide and 21 miles long. It extends from a point intersecting the present approach site near the river to the Madison and St. Clair County lines. The House of Delegates Committee which investigated the approach question recommended the northeastern or Gerhart approach, ignoring the approach site selected by President Reber of the Board of Public Improvements.

The attorneys declare that the selection of the Reber approach would bottle the terminus of the bridge between hostile railroads, while the selection of the Gerhart approach would so isolate it as to make it impracticable for railroad use.

They say also that the Gerhart approach could not be built within the limits of the proposed additional bond issue, even if the right of way could be acquired from East St. Louis. The Gerhart approach crosses 25 East St. Louis streets, while the approach offered by the Alton & Mississippi crosses but two.

The Alton & Mississippi approach leaves the limits of East St. Louis 3500 feet from the river, while the other proposed approaches extend for miles through East St. Louis property.

The attorneys say the company has offered the city, in good faith, a right of way which from an operative standpoint possesses the greatest possibilities for creating the competition necessary for the complete abolition of the bridge arbitrary.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED FOR BRIDGE BONDS

A special committee, to conduct a campaign in behalf of the proposed additional bond issue for the Free Bridge, was appointed Monday by Otto F. Karbe, chairman of the Citizens' Municipal Bridge Committee.

Colin M. Selph was named as chairman, and the other members selected were Henry W. Kiel, Herman W. Fay, Edward Devoy and Horace G. Beedle. Selph said, after being notified of his appointment, that he would call a meeting of the committee and plan an educational campaign. The special election is to be held Nov. 7.

The committee will not treat the question of approaches as bearing on the issue before the voters, Selph said, but will seek to persuade the public that it would be a discredit to the city to leave the bridge uncompleted.

LETTER TO HADLEY CAUSED LID CLUB RAIDS SUNDAY

Governor Forwarded Anonymous Note to Chief Young and Many Arrests Followed.

Activity of the police in raiding lid clubs Sunday was due to an anonymous letter sent to Gov. Hadley on Maryland Hotel stationery. The writer declared that the lid club situation in the downtown district was a disgrace to civilization. He said he was not a member of any of the so-called clubs, but he had no difficulty in entering four or five. He was not even required to have himself identified, and drinks were sold to him the same as in saloons. Some of them, he stated, were frequented by girls and women of all ages, most of whom were intoxicated when he visited the clubs.

The letter also mentioned two downtown restaurants, which were declared to be winerooms in disguise.

Gov. Hadley forwarded the letter to Chief Young, "for your perusal." Chief Young turned it over to Capt. Schwartz of the Central District.

Schwartz visited the two restaurants Saturday night and found women drinking there, but concluded he was not justified in making arrests.

Raids were made, however, on the Windsor Club, 113 North Sixth street; the Woodland, 9 North Sixth street; the Typo-Press, 108 North Eighth street; the Zodiac, 111 North Sixth street; the French Renaissance, 917 Locust street, and the Fifteenth Ward Democratic Club, 204 North Eighteenth street, and the shine shop of Tunis Carter, 1321 Gay street.

Some of the clubs were raided twice, and managers and bartenders were arrested. At the Carter shop 68 bottles of beer and one bottle of whisky were found in an ash box.

False Teeth and Prayer Beads Stolen

A set of false teeth and a string of prayer beads were stolen from the room of Patrick Fitzgerald, 110 North Twelfth street, Sunday night. The burglar ignored money and jewelry within reach.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I cannot express what I went through before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women suffering from these and kindred ailments. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. Nathan B. Greaton, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

Women everywhere should remember there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through the various stages of ailments they endure as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case, write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

COLLIER FAMILY ARE "AT HOME" IN "TAKE MY ADVICE"

Entertain Visiting Stage Folk and Please Large Audience at the Garrick.

PLAY OF LIGHT FABRIC

Lines Are Bright, but the Story Is Almost Lost in the Telling.

WITH Ethel Barrymore and the members of her company, which opens at the Olympic tonight, and De Wolf Hopper, Fay Templeton, Eugene Cowles and the members of "The Pinafore" company, which had just closed a week at the Shubert, occupying boxes and parquet seats of the Garrick, last night, the performance had the appearance of a professional matinee.

The unusual Sunday night audience, occupying all the available space in the theater put the players in happy mood and "William Collier" seemed to take keen delight in delivering the bright lines and sharp repartee of "Take My Advice," a play partly of his own making and played principally by the Collier family, to his friends across the footlights.

So happily and insistently did he make every little comedy point score that he kept the audience in constant laughter and managed to keep up interest in a story that has no real interest of its own—for "Take My Advice" has a plot so thin that it couldn't stand on its own feet. But it had such genuine humor in the first act and gave promise of such original development in the later acts that it kept the audience expectant—an expectation that was never realized so far as the play was concerned.

But one never lost interest in William Collier, with his secret wine chest and his unquenchable thirst, nor in his sister—sister in the play as well as in private life—with the insatiable desire for dinner. These two kept the humor of the play alive all the time and revived it almost immediately when a touch of sentiment would threaten a moment's dullness.

"Take My Advice," taken seriously, is to attend to your own business. This is all that can be gained from the somewhat involved story of the comedy of Collier and Montgomery's writing.

The first act shows into what desperate conditions young Ogden, the role played by Collier, has become involved by allowing himself to be governed by a peculiar will and allowing others to look after its provisions. Statements show him wealthy, but he has no money. Then he takes charge of his own affairs. Curio gathering and antiques give way to lemon and orange shipping and by attending to his own affairs and being deaf to advice he succeeds beyond expectation and wins the charming girl of his heart's desire in place of "the lemon" designed by the will's provision.

Collier's wife in private life is the sweetheart of the play; his son, William Jr., is the nephew; his brother-in-law becomes his chum, thus completing the little family circle as seen on the Garrick stage last night. There are a half dozen or more other players, but the reception of the Collier family to the visiting members of the profession was the principal feature of Sunday evening's performance.

OLCOTT AT THE CENTURY.

Chauncey Olcott, who has a certain lot of followers who go to see him from year to year and always linger on his songs, opened a week's engagement at the Century Sunday evening in "Macushla" (Pulse of My Heart), a drama of the north of Ireland, at the time when Knighthood was in flower, and the Irish fighting spirit was at its height.

In the present play the fighting spirit is all over and about a horse race, in which the villain attempts to dope the horse on which the hero has bet his all and on which much else depends. The trick is frustrated and the hero moves happily on to his sweetly singing mood.

Olcott had to make a speech—as he always does before his admirers will be satisfied—and had to again sing "My Wild Irish Rose," without which no Olcott performance would be complete. The new songs which are a part of "Macushla" are "The Girl I'll Call My Sweetheart Must Look Like You," "Good-by My Emerald Isle," "With the Twinkle in Her Eye," and "Macushla." Other incidental music, arranged especially for the play, adds much to its charm and the supporting company is well qualified to assist the singing star in keeping up the romantic atmosphere of the play.

PLAYGOERS' GUIDE.

OLYMPIC—Ethel Barrymore in "The Witness for the Defense" opens this evening.

SHUBERT—William Hodge, in "The Man From Home," one of the most cheering, entertaining and gladdening of the hardy annuals. Practically the same capable company supports him.

GARRICK—William Collier in "Take My Advice," comedy with clever lines and bright repartee, which star illuminates.

CENTURY—Chauncey Olcott in "Macushla," a new racing drama, introducing new songs. Pleasingly played by star and capable company.

AMERICAN—"The Dawn of a Tomorrow," with Isabelle Lowe in leading role. A praiseworthy production of a very successful play.

IMPERIAL — Baldwin-Melville Stock Co. in "Darkest Russia," a romantic melodrama. Well presented.

COLUMBIA—New vaudeville bill, headed by Edward Abeles and company in "He Tried to Be Nice."

HAVLIN'S—"Chief of the Secret Service," melodrama of many thrills, played by Harry Fields and capable company.

STANDARD—"Zallah's Own Company." Burlesque and vaudeville.

GAYETY—"Al Reeves' Beauty Show." Burlesque and vaudeville.

Stove, Range and Furnace Repairs. A. G. Brauer Supply Co., 316 N. Third.

Aviator Robinson Quits River.

DAVENPORT, Io., Oct. 23.—Aviator Hugh Robinson, who planned to fly in his hydro-aeroplane from Minneapolis to New Orleans, ended his flight at Rock Island, Ill., and Sunday packed up his machine and left for Enid, Ok., to fill exhibition dates.

You are certain of complete satisfaction if the Stove or Range you buy is a "Buck's."

TWO MEN ARE BEATEN UP

One Stops to Look on and Is Attacked.

When David Burton of 1414 North Market street stopped to find out why four men were beating Frank Sesniak of 1600 North Ninth street at Thirteenth street and Cass avenue about 1 a. m., Sunday, he was set upon by the quartet and beaten and robbed of 60 cents.

Sesniak later told the police the men made no attempt to rob him. He said he knew of no motive for the assault upon him as he had never seen the men before.

BREAKS UP A SEVERE COLD IN JUST A FEW HOURS AND CONTAINS NO QUININE.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.—ADV.

Practical Home Helps

For Insomnia

Heat 1 glass of milk to boiling point, add enough sugar to suit the taste, and 2 tablespoonfuls of Duffy's pure malt whiskey; stir well and drink slowly. If taken before retiring this will quiet the nerves and produce restful sleep. It is a simple remedy that can be prepared by anyone very quickly.

Dr. I. S. Townsend of Detroit, Mich., who is an authority, says: "This recipe will cure insomnia and build up the weak, nervous and debilitated."

MAN IS HELD FOR WIFE MURDER ON A GIRL'S LETTERS

Love Missives Found in MacFarland's Newark Home Lead to Charge of Poisoning.

FREEDOM IS SPOKEN OF

Prisoner Reads One Unconcernedly After the Prosecutor Has Inspected It.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The information on which Prosecutor Wilbur A. Mott has charged Allison MacFarland of Newark, N. J., with poisoning his wife with cyanide of potassium at her home is contained, it was ascertained today, in a score of love letters sent to the prisoner by Miss Florence Bromley of Philadelphia.

One of these letters of recent date expresses Miss Bromley's happiness over the fact that MacFarland would soon be in a position to make her his real wife. All of the missives are brimming with affection.

Mott has also succeeded in getting possession of a letter sent to Miss Bromley by MacFarland in which he speaks of obtaining freedom through the divorce courts.

John M. Bromley, father of Miss Florence, was called on the long-distance telephone and told of this development.

"I know nothing of any letters," he answered.

"Will you permit your daughter to come to the telephone?" was asked.

"No, I shall not," he replied. "I shall make this investigation myself."

Satchel Full of Letters.

The letters were found in McFarland's house Friday afternoon. Detective Godfrey of Prosecutor Mott's staff went to the house and made a thorough search. Here and there, in places which it is believed Mrs. MacFarland was not suspicious enough to search, the letters were discovered. The correspondence filled a satchel.

The detectives were reading these letters Friday evening when another letter from Miss Bromley to MacFarland was delivered.

It was first turned over to the prosecutor, who after reading it directed Godfrey to hand it to the prisoner, then "detained" in the witness room of the Fifth Precinct. Godfrey watched the man's face as he read it. MacFarland drew the letter from the envelope without asking why it had been opened, and read it with countenance of stone. His dark, expressive eyes exhibited no sign that the communication meant anything more to him than a patent medicine circular. After he had perused it he placed the letter back in the envelope and with almost a bored air, thrust it into Godfrey's hand. Then he yawned.

MacFarland has not been questioned by the police since Friday. He is in the county jail at Newark, where he was taken Saturday after he had been held without bail on the charge of willfully causing his wife's death. He seems eager to talk to explain away "the unfounded charge," as he puts it, but Prosecutor Mott is playing a game that he thinks will be successful. It is hoped that MacFarland's nerve—no prisoner in the history of Essex County crimes has shown quite his mental stability—will be shaken, and that he will gain the impression that admissions from him are not necessary in building up the State's case.

Father-in-Law Sends Love.

George A. Crockett, MacFarland's father-in-law, living at Rockland, Me., to which place the body of Mrs. MacFarland was sent Friday night, sent him this telegram yesterday morning: "Telegram received. Love and regards. Will follow with letter."

Richard McGuiness, the Warden, took the message to MacFarland, McGuiness stood outside the cell door after passing the telegram through the bars.

"That should cheer you up," said the Warden. MacFarland made no answer, either by word or facial expression. The encouragement seemed to mean nothing to him. He raised his eyes inquisitively and the Warden walked away.

MacFarland's bearing in the county jail is that of a man who is supported by the knowledge that he is innocent. Since his confinement he has made good use of every hour of sleep permitted him. One turnkey said the prisoner is acting as though the jail were a rest cure.

REV. LANCASTER RESIGNS

Assistant at Pilgrim Congegational Going to Vermont.

The Rev. Archibald A. Lancaster, assistant pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, has presented his resignation, which will be acted on at the church's midweek meeting Wednesday night. He has decided to accept a call to the pastorate of the Congregational Church in Middlebury, Vt. This is one of the oldest and best known churches of New England, and it is attended by most of the students of Middlebury College.

In informing the congregation Sunday of the resignation, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. C. S. Mills, praised the work of his assistant, who came here two years ago from Michigan. He had charge of the church during Dr. Mills' recent absence of six months. He has been a successful organizer and leader of the Boy Scouts.

RYAN ORGANIZING AEROPLANE TRUST

$50,000 Company Formed to Control Amercian Rights of Nieuport Monoplane.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Allan Ryan, son of Thomas Fortune Ryan, is tightening his grip on the commercial possibilities of aviation. It will be announced in today's issue of Aircraft Magazine that Ryan has just organized a $50,000 company to control the American rights of the Nieuport monoplane, a French machine, noted as the speediest in the world.

The new company is looked upon as another subsidiary aeroplane company that will go to make up a great aeroplane trust in which Ryan and a coterie of his close Wall street friends in the Aero Club of America are interested.

Ryan was one of the first to become heavily interested in the $1,000,000 Wright company. With him Robert Collier and Russell Alger also became members of the Board of Directors of the Wright concern. Although Ryan has declined to accept another term as president of the Aero Club of America because ill health necessitates his living in Colorado, where he has recently taken a house, he has arranged matters in the Aero Club so that his successor shall be a man of his choice. Robert Collier was nominated a few days ago as candidate to succeed Allan Ryan as president of the club.

DYNAMITE ATTEMPT ON ST. LOUIS TRAIN

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 23.—A telegram to the local police asking them to watch for three suspected men brought the first information that an attempt was made this morning to dynamite Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific train, No. 27, from St. Louis to Denver, at Eldon, Mo., 170 miles east of here.

The track was damaged by the explosion, but the passenger train passed over. A freight train which followed was delayed for an hour while the damage was repaired.

Three men, who were seen in Eldon yesterday, are suspected, and their descriptions have been sent to the police of all surrounding cities.

IN DEALING WITH PILES, YOU MUST DEAL WITH THE CAUSE

Just Tablets—Easy to Take

Surgical treatment for piles so often fails to bring a lasting cure because it misses the cause, and after all the pain and suffering, another and perhaps a worse attack comes on. It is poor circulation in the lower bowel that causes piles—a stagnation in the veins that swell them with heavy, dark blood. This cause is strictly internal, and needs internal treatment.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID is a physician's prescription in the form of sugar-coated tablets and it cures cases of piles that cutting or treatment with salves and suppositories had only relieved.

A Cure for Constipation That Never Fails

Appendicitis and nine-tenths of all other diseases are due to constipation. When waste matter remains in the colon or large intestine, it ferments and forms powerful poisons that are quickly absorbed by the blood and distributed throughout the body. That's why constipation ruins the health of so many men and women. Drugs give only temporary relief. Thousands of American and European physicians have learned that to cure constipation permanently the patient must

Bathe Internally

You can now easily do this at home. An eminent New York physician, Dr. Charles A. Tyrell, has invented a simple device known as the J. B. L. Cascade, with which anyone can quickly and safely take an internal bath without the aid of a doctor. Not only does the J. B. L. Cascade thoroughly cleanse the colon, but it strengthens the muscles of the intestines and stimulates those organs to perform their functions naturally, thereby effecting a permanent cure.

All this week the J. B. L. Cascade will be on exhibition at this store. Come in and see it.

THE GERMAN DE LESSEPS.

We need not be greatly concerned on account of the plan attributed to German interests of constructing in Costa Rica a rival to the Panama Canal. The alleged plan is practically a revival of the old route via Lake Nicaragua, which forms part of the boundary between Costa Rica and the State of Nicaragua.

Under both plans the waterway would follow the tumbling San Juan River for 95 miles up from the Atlantic side of the isthmus to the lake, but on the route west from the lake to the Pacific the plans differ. The old American plan proposed the use of the Las Lajas River in part. The Germans have found a new river wholly in Costa Rican territory, the Sapoa, by which it is hoped to make the work less difficult.

Either plan for utilizing the Nicaraguan route presents difficulties enough. Improvement of the San Juan River to navigation depths is most costly, and its 104-foot fall will require four or five dams. On the same basis on which the American commissioners 10 or 12 years ago estimated the Panama waterway at $156,378,258, they estimated the Nicaraguan at $200,000,000. The Maritime Canal Co. of the United States, which failed in 1893, spent $4,500,000 and hardly made an impression on the natural topography. Even a shallow waterway, such as the Germans are said to have projected, would cost an enormous sum, and the economy of larger vessels would leave a diminishing amount of shipping capable of using the canal.

The route via Lake Nicaragua is nearly 200 miles in length and that via Panama only 40. The one advantage of the Nicaragua route is that it is 350 or 400 miles nearer important Northern ports.

In his attack on Theodore Roosevelt, Senor Francisco Escobar has been guilty of libel, misprision of treason, actual treason, and a conspiracy of one against an ex-United States Government. He will get what is coming to him.

A LESSON IN EFFICIENCY.

One point in the dealings of St. Louis justice with Mrs. Graeser's dog is of too much importance in municipal history to be left without due emphasis.

It is not that the extremity of the law is the extremity of injustice. When this habitually efficient animal bit an employe of a municipal public service corporation, he risked his legal existence in protecting what he considered the private rights of his blind mistress who could not afford to pay for his license. He risked death in the line of what he considered duty.

Over and above this, it is to be noted that being a dog, he did not stop to weigh consequences to himself in giving the premises of his mistress the effective protection he understood she expected him to give. He went up against the influence of a public service corporation efficiently, without hesitation and without reserve. His painful experience ought to be accepted rather as an example than a warning. Not over ten per cent of his determination put into resisting trespass on public rights, might make municipal regulation automatic.

We don't know just where Mr. Taft is today, but he is undoubtedly demonstrating that progress is not necessarily progressive.

LEST WE FORGET.

It is told of the Gate of Janus, which stood open when Rome was at peace and remained closed while she was at war, that in the seven centuries from the Emperor Numa to the Christian Era it was open but four times.

This seems to us a terrible record, but our own Gate of Janus does so little better in the recently published memoirs of Gen. Nelson A. Miles that the wars of our republic, considering its advantages, must in turn have seemed very terrible to some of the more peaceable Romans.

Gen. Miles began his career in the Civil War. He subsequently fought the Kiowas, Sioux, Cheyennes, Bannocks, Nez Perces, Apaches and Spaniards. Upon his retirement from the command of the United States Army, in 1903, he had almost gone from one war to another for a period of 40 years. These latter wars were not always sanguinary, but they were wars, they required the services of military experts, and personal danger was about as generously pro rated among those present as it had been in the Wilderness and at Spottsylvania. The most serious wound he received in the war with the South was from a minie ball fired from a distance of 150 yards, but he had a much narrower escape from an Indian firing at him at 10 feet, and red men have pressed him more desperately than white. Peace is a new thing to Gen. Miles. It is a new thing to the army. The republic counts its wars from Mexico to the South, and from Spain to the Filipinos. The army, meanwhile, came around with hard fighting and campaigning by way of Sitting Bull, Spotted Tail, Chief Joseph and Geronimo.

THE GOSPEL OF PROGRESS.

Experience in the last twenty-five years, the speaker declared, has shown that, while the people may be aroused to sound and high thinking and their legislative and executive officers try to carry out their purpose, yet the whole movement for good may come to nought, "because certain judges of certain courts are steeped in some outworn political or social philosophy, and totally misapprehend their relations to the people and to the public needs."—From a report of Theodore Roosevelt's speech to the Civic Forum.

Now we know precisely what the movement for the popular control of judicial opinion means. The judges are not to interpret the Constitution and laws in the light of principle and reason, but according to the "public needs." If a judge makes a mistake as to the popular opinion concerning "public needs," or refuses to register it in his decision, he is recalled as unfit for judicial office.

It will be unnecessary to amend the Constitution or to pass laws providing for the public needs. The judges will read into the laws what they think the people want when a decision is called for.

This is the gospel of progress according to the progressive master. But why bother over a Constitution and guarantees of rights? They are obstacles to progress. What the self-appointed leaders of the people think is good for them is the Constitution and the law.

Missouri responds to the high cost of living bogey by showing that her bank deposits have increased nearly $16,000,000 in the past year, nearly $4,000,000 of which was savings deposits.

TRUSTS' NON-COMPETITIVE RIVALS.

Attorney-General Wickersham's statement about the independent tobacco manufacturers shows why the percentage of control a trust may exercise over an industry is not always a full measure of its success in suppressing competition. The tobacco independents, he says, are glad to operate in the shadow of the trust and profit by the high range of prices the trust maintains and by the odium the trust has acquired among certain consumers. Perhaps after disagreeable experiences in fighting the combine, the independents are hardly to be blamed for keeping on friendly terms with it, but the fact remains that while making especial appeal to anti-trust prejudice, they earn enormous dividends as a result of trust market control without nominal connection with the trust.

What is true of the tobacco independents is true of the sugar, the steel and other so-called independents. The official figures are alleged to show that the Sugar Trust controls only 42 per cent of its industry. But practically the co-operation of other interests makes its dominance of the market most of the time as complete as though it controlled 100 per cent.

The trouble with Terminal troubles is that they lack terminal facilities.

WHEN BORDEN BEGINS TALKING.

When Ottawa telegraphed the Post-Dispatch that Premier Robert L. Borden was starting on a "holiday trip" for the United States, it meant something. Probably it means that we are soon to have samples of the best quality of Tory eloquence.

From samples given before Mr. Borden became Premier, there is no doubt of the quality or style of the Tory eloquence he is prepared to regale us with on this side of the line. He can combine the Tory theory of exclusiveness with millennial prophecies of what he calls the new Democracy. When he means more warships and peace spent in preparation of jabbing imperial bayonets into those who object to being coordinated, combined, centralized, controlled and elevated to the level of the imperial Tory idea, he can light up the whole horizon with an aurora borealis, prophetic of the brotherhood of mankind.

Few men outside the United States have the faculty of making Tory language beam with the Taft smile, when the world is to be persuaded that the path of progress must lead in spiral curves, repeatedly back to the Middle Ages. Premier Borden is one of the few. No other man living can talk more fluently or eloquently on Tory imperialism as the greatest blessing the human race ever enjoyed. We need closer acquaintance with Mr. Borden. When he begins talking, we will need to understand what he means. He is entitled to the warmest welcome we can give him whenever he crosses to our side of the line of the British Imperial Brotherhood for the control of the human race.

In Cleveland and soon in Detroit rides 12 miles or more long can be taken at three-cent care fares. Why should a ride over a few hundred feet of bridge between St. Louis and East St. Louis cost 10 cents?

DEARTH OF POPULAR POETS.

The story of the tribute paid by Indiana school children to James Whitcomb Riley, "the children's poet," as he lay apparently in the shadow of death, told in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, is pathetic. The selection of Riley's verse, old and new, while adding to the interest of the story, suggests the thought that what newspaper men call a "spread" of poetry is very rare nowadays, for the good reason that, while many writers are producing real poetry, some of which may make the writers famous, there is little popular poetry being written. There seems to be a dearth of poets who can write so as to cause a stir beyond the ranks of the literati and attract widespread attention.

The ranks of the elder minor poets have recently been thinned by the death of Stedman, Aldrich, Stoddard, Gilder, Ware and Foss. We have still with us such singers as Riley, Joaquin Miller, Bliss Carman, Madison Cawein, Edwin Markham, Earnest McGaffey, Frank L. Stanton, S. E. Kiser, Harriet Munroe and Louise Imogen Guiney. But not one has achieved the popularity of Riley or laid the foundation for a tribute by the children or adults of a whole state, much less shown the capacity for profoundly stirring the emotions of a verse-loving people.

"I have the biggest job I know of as Mayor of New York," said Mr. Gaynor, disavowing presidential aspirations. The statement is only rhetorical, but shows appreciation of his responsibilities. The collective Mayors of the country really do have duties as important in their way as the Presidency and contribute even more directly to the welfare of the increasing percentage of Americans in municipal jurisdictions. That this office's opportunities for genuine distinction should be given up for other offices is a cause for wonder.

Mr. Roosevelt has succeeded in making it clear that if he was in California he would do to judges as the Californians do.

In short, the St. Louis Aero Club wouldn't come down, so Robinson did.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Reckless Auto Drivers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Replying to the article signed "Auto" in Monday evening's Post-Dispatch, I would like to say that there are many pernicious automobile drivers. Saturday night I was waiting to board a Grand avenue car at 2500 North Grand. As the car slowed down an automobile came rushing by and I was forced to run back to the sidewalk to avoid being run down. As the auto passed the driver shouted to me, "Get out of the way, d——n you, or I'll run over you," and emphasized his remarks by calling me a vile name. I tried to distinguish the number on the license tag, but was unable to do so, although there was a street lamp within 10 feet, owing to the color of the license tag. The present tag must have been designed especially for the careless auto driver. I missed my street car and had to wait several minutes for another.

The Civic League Explains.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The Executive Board of the Civic League, in a meeting today, formally expressed its regret at the publicity given the unfortunate remark by Mr. Baldwin, the secretary of the league, at a recent meeting of the Ad Men's League, at which no reporters were present. The league especially regrets this, as it recognizes that all the papers of the city have been of invaluable assistance to the league in the many campaigns it has conducted for city betterment.

We take this occasion to express our grateful appreciation of the assistance rendered the league by each and every paper in St. Louis in the improvement of civic conditions. We recognize the great power of the press in helping us forward this work, and we are convinced that this incident will in no way lead to a lessening of the valuable help and co-operation we have received from all the press of St. Louis.

The Civic League has a Press Committee, and, according to the by laws of the league, no communications to the press are official unless issued by the chairman or a representative of this committee, and in all cases such communications are given to the press in writing. No other communication from any officer or member of the league is official.

Careless Smokers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In regard to smoking in street cars, permit me to relate my experience with these smokers, especially the "cigarette fiend."

While standing along the side of a Spring car to board it one of these chaps sitting somewhere near the middle of said car threw a lighted cigarette butt out of the window onto my overcoat, burning a hole in it about an inch and a half in diameter. Could not the United Railways Co. be induced to put cuspidors in the cars, thereby not only giving these cigarette smokers some comfort, but also protecting the public at large?

F. C. CHASE.

Clark and Folk.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While Mr. Champ Clark is undoubtedly an aspirant for the highest honor the nation can bestow, regardless of his evasive replies on the point, both his and Mr. Folk's success in the race will not depend upon the convention's complimentary indorsement of Mr. Folk, but upon the votes of the people. The complimentary vote given to Mr. Folk can do him no harm, as it was cast by the legal representatives of the people. Apart from the compliment of the convention, he will stand upon an even plane with Mr. Clark for the suffrage of the people at the election.

Mr. Clark's merits are of a very high order and deserve honorable recognition. His record is unspotted. But the great service in delivering the city from the corrupt horde which had fed on its vitals so many years will leave the name of Joseph W. Folk unforgotten.

JAMES P. WILTON.

Do Suffragettes Neglect Home?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have watched with great interest the way in which the campaign for woman suffrage is sweeping the country, and I talk to many women about it. Each day I find more and more women who are becoming interested in the subject and more and more women who are beginning to feel that they want the vote. Almost invariably when I find a woman who does not want it, and I ask her why she doesn't her answer is: "It will take time, and I now have more to do than I can accomplish."

What I should like to know is how much ground this last woman has for her statement, and it has occurred to me that one of the best ways to find this out would be to take examples of the women who are leading the suffrage movement in St. Louis and see how they answer this question.

It would be hard to imagine any political campaign that would require of the women more time or effort than the board of the Equal Suffrage League is putting into the Pankhurst lecture and their other efforts for suffrage, and I should be greatly interested to know what these women can do and do besides. Are their interests confined to getting the ballot? Are they homemakers or professional women? Have they abandoned the so-called womanly arts or can they cook, sew and keep house, and, above all, have their interests become narrowed or do they retain a broad lookout upon life and an appreciation of its cultured and humanitarian side?

INQUIRER.

Sunday Postoffice.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The Sunday closing of the Postoffice obtained by solicitation and pressure of its employes through printed "requests" delivered by mail carriers is causing widespread complaints. Not only does it hamper business men, who to some extent and with some trouble can somewhat lessen its bad effects, but it bears particularly hard upon the laboring and serving classes, who have time to get and answer letters on Sunday, many of them from kindred in other states or in countries across the sea. Also many a letter from a sick relative or friend, which requires an immediate answer, and in many cases the taking of the next train, is held up and delayed by this Sunday closing. In fact, the St. Louis Postoffice is now showing many of the evils of the beaurocratic system.

POLITICS UNDER ALDRICH PLAN.

From the New York Evening Post.

J. J. Hill in his speech to the bankers of Springfield, Ill., objected to the Aldrich plan on the ground that it would protect the new organization neither against political interference nor against domination by selfish capitalists. We hardly need say that these two perils have been from the start the most serious of all. Political interference, Mr. Hill argues, would be inevitable with the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce and the Controller of the Currency on the Board of Directors, and with the governor and deputy governors appointed by the President of the United States. To an extent this might be true, but the only alternative would be to dispense with such governmental representation and supervision, and that would be flying to the opposite extreme.

VOICE OF CIVILIZATION.

From the New York Sun.

A college choirmaster who has trained young men's voices for many years, said the other day that most of the men who come to him nowadays have bass voices.

"We have fewer tenors than we used to get," he said. "Indeed there is a very noticeable falling off. This is especially so in the college choirs and glee clubs.

"I have a theory based upon the principle accepted among musicians that the bass voice is the voice of civilization. My idea is that our young men are a lot less barbaric than their fathers were. What do you think about it?"

COATESVILLE ACQUITTALS.

From the Philadelphia North American.

The procession of prisoners who have been turned loose from West Chester Jail by the juries in the cases growing out of the Coatesville lynching has aggravated, rather than allayed, the civic-social malady of which the lynching was a symptom.

Tariff Curiosities.

From the Christian Science Monitor.

An initial on a piece of underwear classifies it with "embroidered cotton;" books, if they have leather binding, are classified as leather goods; and these, with some other decisions, are leading sensible people to hope that when the tariff board gets into thorough working order it will also get down to details.

New Role.

From Puck.

"Madam," remarked the weary wayfarer with the bandaged eye, "I was not always as you see me now." "I know it," replied the stern-visaged woman at the back door. "The last time you were here you had on a deaf-and-dumb sign."

Trade Transaction.

From Life.

HE WENT BY JESS THE OTHER DAY.

HE went by jess the other day—the feller got my place in life.
Care was a million miles away, an' all was merry as a fife.
The day was fair, an' the dog was there dreamin' of coons upon the deck—
I watched him fade in the Autumn air till he wasn't nuthin but jess a speck—
Driftin' dim an' fur away—
He went by jess the other day.

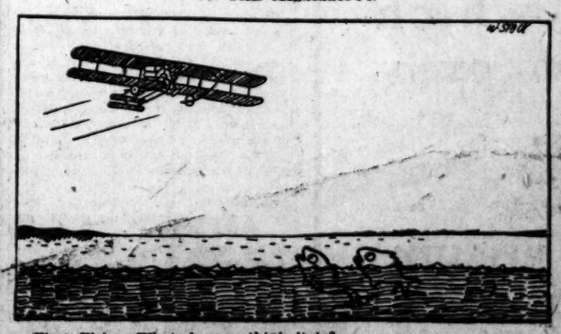

✣ ✣ ✣

IT wasn't much of a shantyboat, but the smell of possum come ashore,
An' a woman's clear an' happy note was singin' through the open door.
The way was clear, an' Dixie near, beckonin' on, an' on, an' on—
I couldn't see him sometimes for a tear, or tell fer sure if he was gone—
The air is got that soft an' grey—
He went by jess the other day.

✣ ✣ ✣

FUST thought I was fer yellin' Hey! Didn't say nothin' to him, though.
Seems like things jess come that way whether a feller will or no.
The stove was hot, an' the world forgot, with all its bitterness an' care—
Don't know if he knowed or not that it wasn't jess exactly fair—
Takin' my place in life that way—
He went by jess the other day.

HENRY.—Try business hours to see County Clerk.

S. D. R.—Try Public Library for books on embalming.

MILLIE.—First fire June 15, second June 16, third June 17.

LEAL.—President may serve all his life if elected every 4 years.

LA LA.—To keep in plait (pleat) suspend the article with a hanger.

C. B.—Largest stockyards: Chicago, Kansas City, East St. Louis, Omaha.

H. W. J.—Molasses may be made lighter by passing chlorine gas through it.

KITTYL.—Examination for unskilled postoffice labor, every February; announcement in January.

HEARTBROKEN.—The payments of premium can be kept up by your husband in the fraternal order.

ANXIOUS.—In Scotland there are the Stuart, Campbell, Cameron, McNair, McGregor and McLeod tartans.

X. Y. Z.—After picking or squeezing out the "whiteheads," you might try applying a solution of boric acid.

K. T.—The (exposed food) screen law specifically states that screens are to be up from April 1 to Dec. 1 of each year.

J. J. M.—The Declaration of Independence is kept in a steel safe in the library of the State Department, Washington, D. C.

ANXIOUS.—For church ceremony, 5 p. m., bride in traveling suit, groom wears cutaway frock coat, gray tie and gloves, white flower.

J. L. G.—If you do not owe her the money she claims refuse to pay and let suit go to trial. Suit must be brought against you here.

FLOSSY.—No respectable girl speaks to young men (for acquaintance) who have not been introduced. Your girl friend is ignorant or careless.

C. B.—Refined platinum is more than double the price of gold. The crude is worth $43 an ounce, hard platinum, $45.50. Iridium is $62 an ounce.

A. B. C. D.—No reply is necessary if you attend. If you find it impossible to go send your card so that the hostess will receive it on the day of the reception.

A. C. W.—Fire policies do not cover damage by gas explosion unless fire ensues and then only for loss caused by fire (excluding loss or damage by such explosion).

MRS. JENKINS.—The "swallowing" in the girl's throat is caused by enlarged tonsils or by adenoids. The remedy is a surgical operation, which would be painless and not dangerous.

PURITY.—The book bindery girls have a union. Pay first half year, $4 a week; second half, $4.50; second year, $5; third year, $6. After this, $8 to $10. You might get some advice from the Woman's Exchange.

O. T.—Tapeworm: Full strength pumpkin seeds; hull and crush to fine powder, mix with a little honey and spread on thin piece of bread; eat as ordinary sandwich. In one or two hours follow with a cathartic.

QUERIES.—Real estate broker, or any holder of a deed of trust, can sell the same to whom and whenever he pleases, without consent or notice to owner of property (or maker of notes secured thereby), or the trustee.

A. B. C.—To clean velvet: Mix two tablespoons liquid ammonia with half pint hot water and apply to velvet with stiff brush, so as to take out all stains and creases. Then hold velvet over a hot iron until the steam raises the pile.

READERS.—All would depend upon facts and circumstances surrounding the transfer; at any rate, the litigation would be very expensive for her. If, as you state, some property was deeded to her, the chances of her claiming for services are very slim.

THANKS.—Grand opera is a drama set to music, in which, under strict construction, there should be no spoken lines. Comic opera is comedy set to music, in which lines are both spoken and sung. The great mark of distinction is in the character of the music, grand opera being in the main more serious, elaborate and formal.

H. W. R.—Four parts alabaster, plaster and 1 part finely pulverized gum arabic, mixed with a cold saturated borax solution into a thick paste, make an unequaled all-around cement for stone, glass, bone, horn, porcelain and wood, which becomes hard as marble and possesses the agreeable working quality of not solidifying immediately, but in 24 to 30 hours.

MRS. YOUNG.—Suit for back taxes can be instituted one year after delinquency, but is not done before limitation of action for recovery is about to set in, which is five years. When judgment is obtained, Sheriff advertises and executes the deed to purchaser. Whether the same would vest a good title depends upon regularity of the entire proceedings, and if not, claim of one in possession may be perfected in 10 years and it may take up to 30 years. A purchaser would naturally exercise immediate control, or try to. Lien of State for taxes is prior to pre-recorded mortgage, but to cut that out parties to incumbrance should be properly made parties to tax suit and also properly served.

RHEA.—If you have the length and width of a bin and the height of coal therein you find the number of tons by figuring contents in inches, dividing by 1848 to get number of bushels, and multiplying by 80 to get number of pounds and tons. This will be a fair approximation. A ton of the highest grade of anthracite should measure 32 cubic feet—that is to say, it should fill a bin 4 feet long by 4 feet wide and 2 feet high. The poorer coals will run up as high as 40 cubic feet. The coal weighs lighter, and consequently more of it is needed to make up the ton, hence an increase in the cubic measurement. A coal that contained a considerable proportion of stone would measure less than 32 feet, but the best grade will every time fill that space.

G. S. V.—Seattle average low temperature, December, 53 degrees; January, 38. Winters are said to be mild and rainy. Hottest Portland (Ore.) weather recorded, 102; coldest, 2 below. In 1905, when average was four-tenths above normal, the maximum was: January 54, February 60, March 66, April 82, May 77, June 92, July 92, August 94, September 86, October 79, November 70, December 54. Minimum, January 27, February 25, March 30, April 30, May 38, June 47, July 51, August 46, September 35, October 25, November 32, December 28. Mean for the year 52.9. There are two distinct climates in Washington due to the fact that the Cascade range of mountains divide the State into two parts. The western, or coast, part of the State has a humid climate, with a mean temperature of 35 for January and 62 for July and no freezing weather; winter is the rainy season, with the rainfall of sometimes 150 inches, and with the temperature much like a Boston October. There are no extremes of temperature such as characterize a New England climate. Eastern Washington, on the contrary, shut out by the mountains from the tempering influence of the Pacific ocean, has a climate like that of the Dakotas or Idaho, with extremes of temperature between 30 below zero and 112 above.

Women at 35 and Men at 45 Are Ineligible

All Hope of Matrimony Must Be Abandoned at Those Ages, Therefore Be Wise in Time. An Interview for the Post-Dispatch.

By Nixola Greeley Smith.

WHY is an old bachelor?

Also, WHEN is he? Likewise, why and when is a bachelor woman?

Both these natural phenomena have no excuse for being, according to Dr. Eugenia Hancock, who supplements her denunciation of the state of celibacy by specifications as to the age and qualities which determine when a man becomes an old bachelor and a woman an old maid.

Dr. Hancock is a well-known woman physician, and is the wife of another physician. She practices matrimony as well as preaches it.

"Bachelors are becoming more prevalent every day," she says. "Bachelorhood for men and women is a modern disease. The symptoms in women are: Dissatisfaction with the responsibilities that marriage entails; fear of becoming home-makers and home-keepers; abnormal ambitions for money, clothes and social position. They scorn to marry a man in average circumstances, and so become bachelor women, shop girls, or worse.

"IN men the symptoms of approaching bachelorhood manifest themselves in a desire to cultivate the acquaintance of wealthy girls, with a view to a sordid marriage for money; loss of a man's conndence in women's ability to cook properly, keep his home tidy and to be satisfied with the slim honorarium that is his.

"A man ceases to be eligible and becomes an old bachelor at 45. A woman passes definitely out of the ranks of the marriageable at 35.

"But don't imagine I blame the women for the increasing number of celibates. It's the training, or rather the lack of training, of our young men that is responsible. Courtesy, consideration for and appreciation of women is not taught to the young boy by his mother as it should be. Very often the mother can't help it. She's downtown earning a living.

"But the first thing the boy thinks of as soon as he leaves school is to go to work. 'Get a job' is the watchword of his earliest youth. Get a job and keep it at all cost to honor or honesty even.

"The lack of right training at home is proved by the development of such sordid and selfish ideas in our young men. To marry for money or live in material ease is the formula of quick success for thousands. It is said, of course, that young women as well as young men shirk the responsibilities of marriage. That is true of a small class which prefers the drudgery of a job downtown, the pretty clothes and small luxuries their salaries buy for them, to a real home and life with some young chap whom they might help to greater success than either could ever win alone.

"GIRLS don't look ahead. Now, when they are young and charming they find plenty of men willing to take them about to dinners and theaters. But I, as a physician, see the end of all the good times. I see them at 40 or 45 gray-haired and ill, yet afraid even to take time for their illness for fear some younger women will push them out of their jobs. Men don't care for gray hair in their offices; they want young, pretty faces, and the young women, strong and efficient, too, push their elders to the wall. Some of the middle-aged bachelor women I know regret bitterly that they have never married. Often their lives have been devoted to caring for aged parents or young brothers and sisters. They are noble, self-sacrificing souls, and there loneliness, their fear of the future, is a tragic thing to contemplate.

"They speak of such women as competing with men, as taking their jobs away; but it is useless to tell women today to go back to their homes. Nearly every old bachelor means a home that should have been, but that never will be because of his coldness and selfishness."

"You don't think a girl should refrain from getting a job and stay at home waiting for a husband, do you?"

"Most certainly not."

"THE girl who stays at home hasn't as good a chance of marriage as the girl who works. Today very often a girl gets a job and a husband at the same time. Naturally, it's the more enterprising who are downtown, and, whether deliberately or not, they take their pick of the eligible young men during office hours.

"No, the fault isn't with the girls, uptown or downtown. It lies in the selfishness, the lack of courtesy, the lack of appreciation of a certain type of young man. I don't say all young men. The man I mean is the cold, calculating fortune hunter. And only the poor girls know how numerous he is. Yet even he is not altogether to be blamed. His materialistic ideals show that he did not have the right sort of mother. And the mother he did have was probably the product of conditions she could not remedy."

Nevertheless, old bachelors, when you cross the forty-fifth parallel of life, remember: "All hope abandon, ye who enter here."

Love and Courtesy

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Betty Vincent.

MY dear young men, if you love a girl do not allow the advice or gossip of your friends to influence you.

If you have any misunderstanding with the girl on whom your affections are centered do not allow a third person to interfere. Go directly to the girl herself and straighten out your difficulties.

If anybody has anything unpleasant to say about the young woman you are interested in, the better way is not to listen to him or her at all. But if you HAVE listened, do not go about to the other people of your acquaintance trying to prove or disaprove the gossip you have heard.

If you love people you must trust them. If you find your nature is not big enough to trust them, the least you can do is to go to them personally and tell them what you have heard, thus giving them the chance of making their own explanations.

A Birthday Gift.

A. R. writes: "A young man has been calling on me about once a week for the past four months. Soon he is to have a birthday. Will it be proper for me to give him a birthday gift?"

It will be entirely unnecessary for you to give the young man a birthday gift upon such short acquaintance.

Still Loves Her.

L. Y. writes: "I was engaged to a very beautiful young lady, but we broke our engagement. I still love her and I am sure she still cares for me. However, our friends interfere in our affairs and keep us apart. What can I do?"

You would best ignore your so-called friends and go directly to the girl you love. She is probably only waiting to meet you half way.

Best Friendship.

B. Y. WRITES: "I am an orphan and a young man calls frequently upon me, and has given me many presents. He has told me that he loves me, and although I like him as a friend, I do not think I could ever love him. Now, my married sister says I have no right to accept his attentions if I do not intend to marry him. Is she right?"

Your sister is right to this extent: You certainly should make your feelings toward the young man very plain to him. Then if he wishes to continue his attentions he cannot subsequently reproach you.

When He Is Introduced.

P. L. writes: "Is it proper for a young man to shake hands with a young lady when he is being introduced to her, or should he remove his hat only?"

It is not customary for a young girl and a man to shake hands when introduced, but if the young lady puts out her hand, it is, of course, the man's place to respond to the courtesy.

The Texas Idea.

"MY first hotel job was in a Texas city," said a hotel clerk. "One morning a guest who had been celebrating unwisely the night before swayed up to the desk and asked for some information. His name was Col. Hawkins, and he was the soul of politeness under all circumstances. And this morning he was looking worried.

"'Frank,' he whispered, 'my memory of last night, I regret to say, suh, is pretty hazy. Confidentially, now—what did I do?'

"'Colonel,' said I, 'you got drunk and shot a man.'

"'Anything else?'

"'Gee, isn't that about enough?'

"'It's unfortunate, yes, suh. But I was afraid I had insulted somebody.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

MISTY PUZZLE

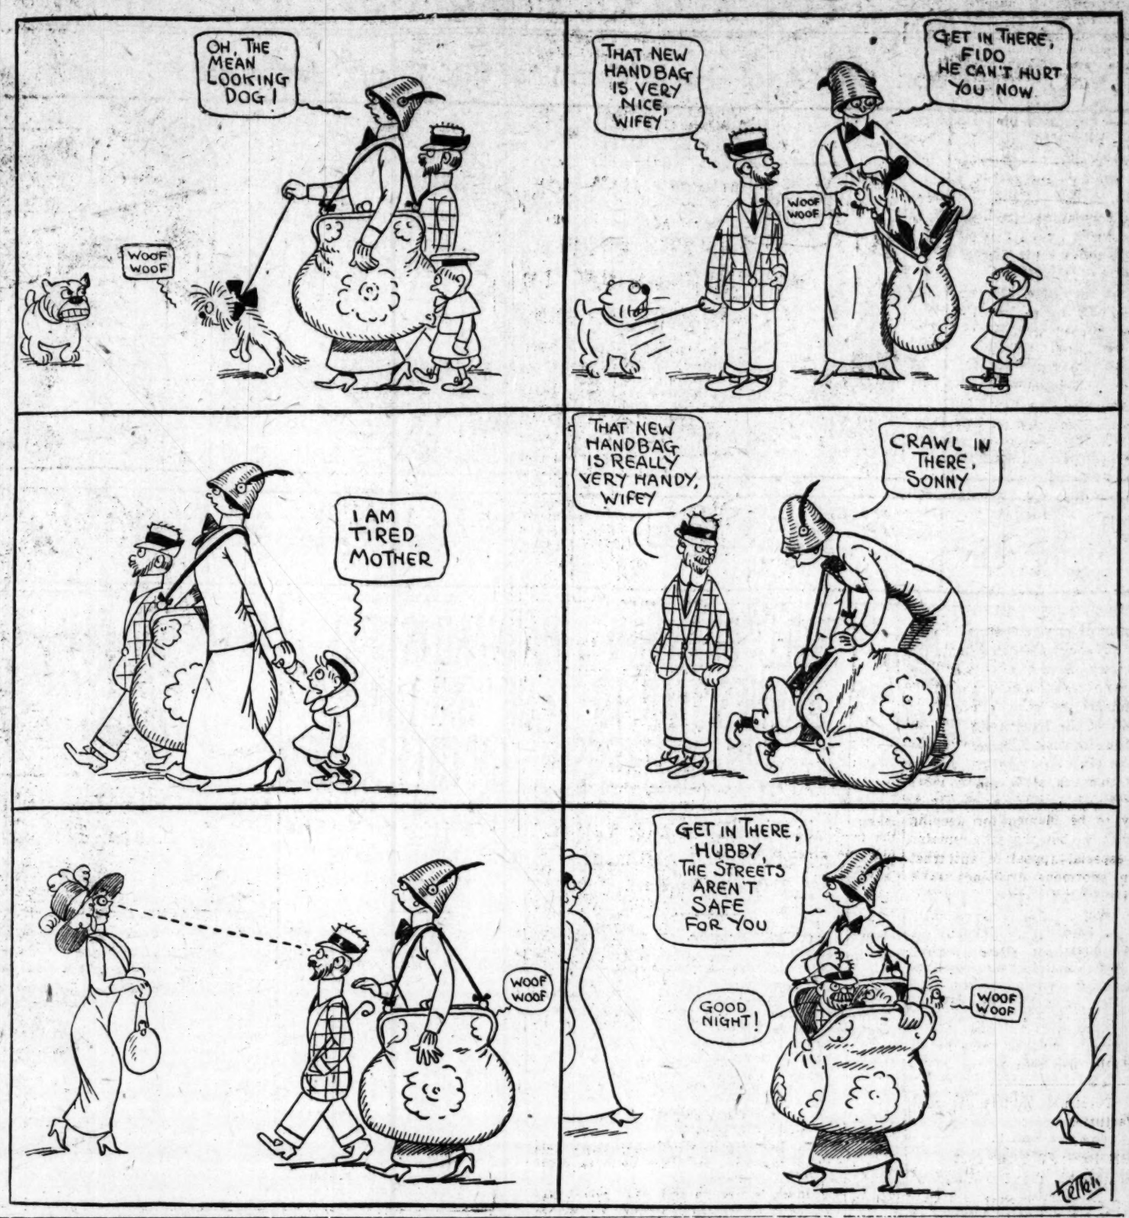

Solution to Mystery Puzzle.

THIS problem is readily solved by working backward, when it is revealed that I must have started with $260, the baron had $80 and the count $140. After the first round I had left $40, the count and baron each doubling their piles and having then on hand $280, and $160 respectively. After the second round I had $80, the baron $320 and the count $80. Then the count and I each doubled our money at the expense of the baron, and we were each left with $160, and I was the only loser, to the extent of $100.

ABDALLAH; OR THE FOUR-LEAVED SHAMROCK

Translated From the French of Eduard Rene Lefebre-Laboulaye.

PERSONS IN THE STORY.

Hadji Mansour, a crafty Egyptian merchant of great wealth; father of Omar.
Omar Mansour, the only son of the richest merchant in Diddah; foster son of Halima and foster brother of Abdallah, her true son.
Halima, widow of Yusuf; an Arabian woman of great probity; mother of Abdallah and nurse of Omar.
Abdallah, a poor Arabian boy, whose only wealth is the piety inculcated by his good mother.
Hafiz, brother of Halima and instructor of Abdallah in the Koran and the art of war. (An astrologer scornfully tells Halima that her son will be fortunate and happy when he has found the four-leaved shamrock, deeming it impossible to find this mythical plant. The search becomes the object of Halima's and Abdallah's existence.)

CHAPTER XXVI.

The Return.

WHEN the son of Yusuf awakened, the moon was shedding her gentle light on the earth, and the breeze of the morning was already felt. The impatient traveler quickened his steps, and, on mounting a small rising ground, he saw the tents of his tribe in the distance by the first beams of daylight. In front of them, and nearer him, was his own dwelling; he had waited for autumn before removing from the garden he had planted, the bower in which Lelia took delight.

At the sight of his people Abdallah paused to take breath and enjoy the spectacle before his eyes. The first sounds of the morning were succeeding the calmness of the night. A few women were already on their way to the well, with their pitchers on their heads; the camels were stretching out their long necks and braying; and the sheep were bleating in their folds for the shepherd. Around Abdallah's tent all was silent; there was neither sound nor movement in the garden. "My uncle is growing old," thought the Bedouin; "there is great need of me at home. What happiness to surprise them all! Who would have thought once that a day's absence would seem so long to me?"

As he ascended the hill a horse ran past him at full gallop—it was Hamama. He called her; the frightened mare fled toward the Bedouin village; for the first time she did not hear the voice of her master.

"Who has untied Hamama?" thought Abdallah. "What has frightened her? It is some new prank of Cafour's. Why haven't they kept better guard?"

He entered the garden, the gate of which was open. At the sound of his steps the dogs came out of the tent, but, instead of running to meet him, they set up a mournful howl. "God is great!" exclaimed the son of Yusuf. "Misfortune has entered my dwelling."

In a moment he felt the bitterness of death. He tried to go on, but his knees bent beneath him, and a cloud passed before his eyes. He tried to call out, but his words choked him. At last, with a desperate effort, "My uncle, my mother, Lelia, Cafour, where are you?" shouted he.

There was no answer. The doves were cooing among the branches, the bees were humming around the last remaining flowers, the water was rippling over the pebbles; everything was living in the garden—the tent was mute and lifeless. Abdallah dragged himself from one clump of trees to another; then his strength returned, and the blood mounted to his cheeks. He staggered onward like a drunken man.

The tent was empty, the furniture overturned, and a table broken; there had been a struggle. The curtain of the apartment of the women was down. Abdallah ran thither. As he entered he stumbled over a corpse—it was Hafiz. The old man was stretched on his back, his teeth shut, his mouth covered with foam, and his features contracted with rage. His hands were clenched. In the left he held a shred of blue cotton stuff—it was the robe of Lelia; in the right a piece of scarlet cloth, torn doubtless from the ravisher. Brave Hafiz! the cowards had not dared attack him face to face, but had assassinated him from behind while he was defending Lelia.

Abdallah fell on his knees by the side of his uncle and closed his eyes. "God grant thee mercy!" said he; "may He be as good to thee as thou wert to us!" He rose without shedding a tear, and walked with a firm step towards the village; but his limbs failed him on the way, and he was forced to lean against a palm-tree for support. Taking his pistols from his girdle, he fired them in the air. At the sound the Bedouins ran from all sides. Men and women surrounded Abdallah, who stood pale, with frenzied eyes and trembling limbs. "Here you are," he cried, "brave warriors, Beni Amurs, kings of the desert! Oh, sons of Jews, hearts of women, cowards, the curses of God fall upon your heads!" And for the first time he wept.

A cry of rage answered his words. "He is mad," cried one of the old men. "Respect him whose soul is with God. Come, my child," added he, taking Abdallah's hand, "calm yourself; what is the matter?"

"What is the matter?" cried the young man. "This night, in my absence, Hafiz has been killed, my mother carried off, all that I love has been snatched from me. And you—you were asleep—you heard nothing. Curses on you. To me the misfortune; to you the outrage and infamy!"

At the first words of Abdallah the women had rushed toward the tent, where they were heard moaning and weeping. The sheik cast down his head.

"Who would have thought of watching over your family when your uncle and brother were there to protect them?" said he.

"My brother! impossible!"

"Your brother came here last evening with six slaves," said a Bedouin. "I knew the little merchant; I helped Hafiz kill a sheep for the supper of his guests."

The son of Yusuf hid his face in his hands, then looked at his companions, and said in a faint voice, "come and see what my brother has done, and advise me what to do."

"Advice is easy," replied the sheik. "After an outrage there is but one thought for him who has a soul—vengeance! You are a finger of our hand; whoever touches you wounds us; whoever seeks your life seeks ours. Omar has a few hours the start of us, but with God's aid we will kill him before night. Come, my brave men," he added, "saddle your horses, and take a double ration of water; the weather is lowering, and the skins dry fast. Let us go."

Before mounting his horse, Abdallah wished to see his uncle once more. The women had already surrrounded the corpse and commenced their lamentations. "Oh, my father, my only friend," cried the Bedouin, "thou knowest why I leave thee. Either I will never more enter this dwelling, or thou shalt be avenged."

The Beni Amurs followed the son of Yusuf. The sheik gazed long at old Hafiz; then, raising his hand, "Accursed be he who returns to his wife till he has stricken down the enemy!" said he. "Woe to him who has insulted us; before this night we will fling his corpse to the eagles and jackals. The whole earth shall know whether the Beni Amurs are brethren who cling together, or children with whom men can trifle with impunity."

CHAPTER XXVII.

Leila.

THE band set out amid the cries of the women and shouts of vengeance. Once in the desert, all was silent, each making ready his arms and watching the horizon. It was not difficult to follow the caravan; the wind had not yet effaced the footprints of the camels, all of which pointed toward Djiddah. Abdallah, always in advance, counted the minutes, and called God to his aid; but, however much he strained his gaze, he saw naught but solitude. The air was burning, the heavens were heavy with the coming storm. The horse, panting and covered with sweat, advanced at a slow pace. The son of Yusuf sighed; vengeance seemed escaping him.

At length he perceived a black speck in the distance—it was the caravan. It had felt the approach of the storm, and had taken refuge near those Red Rocks known so well to Abdallah. "My friends, we have them," cried he. "Here they are; God has delivered them into our hands. Forward!" And each one, forgetting fatigue, spurred his horse on the ravishers.

In these endless plains it is not easy to surprise an enemy that stands on his guard. Omar soon recognized his pursuers, and did not wait for them. He ranged the camels in line, and placed a few drivers behind them to feign a defence, then mounted a horse and fled with the rest of the band into the desert.

The Bedouins came up. At the first discharge, Omar's camel-drivers gave way and fled among the rocks. Before the smoke was cleared away a woman ran to meet Abdallah; it was Halima, who had been left behind and had escaped her enemies.

"Blessed be thou, my son," she cried. "Do not stop; give chase to that negro with the red jacket; he is the assassin of Hafiz and the kidnaper of Leila. Avenge us; eye for eye, tooth for tooth, life for life! Death to traitors, death to murderers!"

At these cries Hamama rushed over the sands with the swiftness of a torrent, as if sharing in her master's passion. The Bedouins had great difficulty in keeping their companion in sight. As for Abdallah, rage made him forget danger. "Cowards!" cried he to the accomplices of Omar, "where would you flee when God pursues you?" and with drawn saber he passed amid the bullets, his eye fixed on the negro who was carrying off Leila. The pursuer and pursued soon left the rest of the party behind. The Ethiopian, mounted on a fleet horse, sped like an arrow through the air, while Abdallah followed close behind. Hamama gained ground; vengeance was approaching. Leila, placed in front and held by a powerful arm, called her husband, writhing in the stifling embrace, and vainly struggling against the terrible rider. Suddenly she seized the bridle and gave it a jerk, which disturbed the horse, and caused him to stop for an instant. "Curses on you," cried the negro; "I am lost. Let go the bridle, or I shall be killed!"

"Here, my beloved!" cried Leila, clinging to the bridle, despite threats and blows, with the energy of despair.

She was saved. The son of Yusuf fell like a thunderbolt on the ravisher, who suddenly the frightened Hamama sprang aside with a bound which would have thrown any other than her rider. A heavy mass had fallen at her feet. Abdallah heard a groan which chilled him to the heart. Without thinking of the flying enemy, he leaped to the ground and raised the unhappy Leila, pale and bleeding, with distorted features. A deep wound was gaping in her throat, and her eyes were pitiless. "Leila, my love, speak to me!" cried Abdallah, clasping his wife to his heart, while he tried to stanch the gaping wound from which her life-blood was ebbing. Leila no longer heard him. He seated himself on the sand with his precious burden, and, taking Leila's hand, raised one finger in the air. "My child," said he, "repeat with me, 'There is no god but God, and Mohammed is his prophet.' Answer me, I entreat you; it is your husband—it is Abdallah that calls you."

At this name Leila started; her eyes sought him whom she loved, and her lips half opened; then her head fell on Abdallah's shoulder like the head of a dying hare on the shoulder of the hunter.

When the Beni Amurs joined the son of Yusuf, they found him motionless in the same place, holding his wife in his arms and gazing in her face, which seemed to smile on him. They surrounded their companion in silence, and more than one wept.

At the sight of the corpse, Halima uttered a cry of anguish, and threw herself on her son's neck; then, suddenly rising, "Are we avenged?" said he. "Is Omar dead? Is the negro slain?"

"See those crows gathering yonder?" said one of the Bedouins; "there is the murderer of Hafiz. Omar has escaped us, but the simoom is rising; it will overtake him before he can escape from the desert, and before an hour the sand will serve as his winding sheet."

"My son, summon up your courage," said Halima. "Our enemy still lives; leave tears to women. Leave us to bury the dead; go, punish the traitor; God will go with you."

These words reanimated Abdallah. "God is great!" he cried. "You are right, my mother; to you the tears, and to me the vengeance."

He rose and placed Leila in his mother's arms; then, gazing at her pale face advance, counted the minutes, and called God to his aid; but, however much he strained his gaze, he saw naught but solitude. The air was burning, the heavens were heavy with the coming storm. The horse, panting and covered with sweat, advanced at a slow pace. The son of Yusuf sighed; vengeance seemed escaping him.

Without thinking of the flying enemy, he leaped to the ground and raised the unhappy Leila, pale and bleeding, with distorted features. A deep wound was gaping in her throat, and her eyes were pitiless. "Leila, my love, speak to me!" cried Abdallah, clasping his wife to his heart, while he tried to stanch the gaping wound from which her life-blood was ebbing. Leila no longer heard him. He seated himself on the sand with his precious burden, and, taking Leila's hand, raised one finger in the air. "My child," said he, "repeat with me, 'There is no god but God, and Mohammed is his prophet.' Answer me, I entreat you; it is your husband—it is Abdallah that calls you."

At this name Leila started; her eyes sought him whom she loved, and her lips half opened; then her head fell on Abdallah's shoulder like the head of a dying hare on the shoulder of the hunter.

When the Beni Amurs joined the son of Yusuf, they found him motionless in the same place, holding his wife in his arms and gazing in her face, which seemed to smile on him. They surrounded their companion in silence, and more than one wept.

At the sight of the corpse, Halima uttered a cry of anguish, and threw herself on her son's neck; then, suddenly rising, "Are we avenged?" said he. "Is Omar dead? Is the negro slain?"

"See those crows gathering yonder?" said one of the Bedouins; "there is the murderer of Hafiz. Omar has escaped us, but the simoom is rising; it will overtake him before he can escape from the desert, and before an hour the sand will serve as his winding sheet."

"My son, summon up your courage," said Halima. "Our enemy still lives; leave tears to women. Leave us to bury the dead; go, punish the traitor; God will go with you."

These words reanimated Abdallah. "God is great!" he cried. "You are right, my mother; to you the tears, and to me the vengeance."

He rose and placed Leila in his mother's arms; then, gazing at her pale face with infinite tenderness, "Peace be with thee, daughter of my soul," he said, in a slow and grave voice. "Peace be with thee, who art now in the presence of the Lord. Receive what has been promised thee. It is God that raises us up, it is God that casts us down; it is God that gives us life, it is God that sends us death. If it pleases God, we shall soon join thee. O God, forgive him, forgive us!"

He raised his hands to heaven, murmured the Fathah, and, passing his hand over his brow, embraced his mother and mounted his horse.

"Where are you going?" said a sheik. "Do you not see that fiery cloud advancing? We have barely time to reach the Red Rocks; death is yonder."

"Farewell," answered Abdallah. "There is no more rest for me except in the shadow or death."

We Milk 30,000 Cows Per Day

Dear Madam—

Think what that means—30,000 cows for folks who want Van Camp's Milk. This city is filled with its users.

We have dairies in seven states—each in the heart of a great dairying section. They are stocked with Holstein cows. There is no finer milk in all the world than comes from these model dairies.

And it is germless milk—utterly sterile. Children can drink it without thought of infection.

Waterless Milk

Close to each dairy the milk, fresh from the cows, is put into a copper vacuum. There we evaporate two-thirds of the water. And, because of the vacuum, this is done without scalding.

That is all we do before the milk is sealed. Nothing whatever is added. The milk is pasteurized after the can is sealed.

Put back the water and the milk is the same as it came from the cow, save for the sterilization by heat.

Thick as Cream

The milk comes to you 28 per cent solids, 8 per cent butter fat. It is so rich and rich that folks always dilute it, even for meals and coffee.

In cooking, it gives to milk dishes twice the richness and flavor of the average milkman's milk. That's because milkman's milk separates. When it gets to the cooking it is rarely more than a half-milk. And Van Camp's is the whole-milk. You'll be amazed at the difference.

No Waste—No Waiting

You can buy, if you wish, a month's supply at a time. Then you have milk and cream of the highest grade ready all the time. And none is left over—none goes to waste. An opened can will keep till you use it up.

Yet, with all these advantages, Van Camp's Milk costs less than the milkman's. We save you the cost of the daily delivery. And we save you all the waste. In the average home the use of Van Camp's cuts milk bills right in two.

It is nothing but habit—the milk wagon habit—which keeps anyone from using this milk. If you once learn its economy, its convenience, richness and purity you will never use other milk.

The 16-oz. can—a full pint of Van Camp's—costs 10 cents. The 8-oz. can costs 5 cents. That's with two-thirds the water evaporated. Your grocer gets it direct from our nearest dairy.

Will Stakeholders Have to Pay Interest on World's Series Bets?

FLOOEY — Poor Old Axel—He's Such a Big Boob, Isn't He? — BY VIC

WORLD'S SERIES PARK MAY NOT BE FIT, TUESDAY

Athletics' Grounds in Wretched Condition Owing to Continued Rains.

SUN MUST SHINE TODAY

Matty Against Coombs or Bender Are Pitching Probabilities for Fourth Game.

By BOZEMAN BULGER.
Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.

OFF again! And none can say when it will be on again! That was the verdict handed down this morning by the world's series umpires after viewing the baseball field here. It was expected, owing to the sodden condition of the grounds.

Shibe Park is yet a quagmire. A game tomorrow is even doubtful, unless the sun comes out by noon.

The groundkeeper had a force of men at the park Sunday, trying to put things in shape; but the task was hopeless. Mud was scraped off the infield and oil was poured on the outfield, but all to no avail. The rain came down again and they quit in disgust.

While the rain continues the two managers are showing considerable anxiety lest the players go stale. The pitchers of both clubs will work out in a gymnasium so as to keep their arms right.

Matty Sure to Work.

With a full week's rest for the pitchers, the chances are that Matty will now pitch the first game here, that Marquard will open in New York, and that the other games will be left to Ames and Wiltse, or maybe Crandall.

One thing that has been brought about by the continuous rain is the passing of bitter feelings. All the enmity against Snodgrass seems to have disappeared, and the players and fans appear to feel more kindly towards the commission.

The statement made by the commission, in which it was explained that only $2500 was received for the picture privileges, and the further explanation that it was to be put in the sinking fund for the support of the commission, took a little of the edge off the protest by the players.

It seems that the commission has never had any large amount of money in its treasury, and that President Hermann didn't draw a cent of salary for five years. Even at that the players seem to think they could have got more money for the moving-picture rights.

Scandal Will Not Put End to Series Says Ban Johnson

American League Head May Order Investigation of Seat Sale in New York.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—President Ban Johnson of the American League, and member of the National Commission, who returned from New York yesterday, is not pleased with the sale of the tickets for the world's series in New York.

"It has been an unfortunate series, for, besides the nasty weather, there has been a lot of scandal connected with the games," said Johnson. "There's no chance, though, for such a thing to put an end to the world's series, for there's too much interest in it, and the players are getting so much money.

"However, the way the scalpers got control of the tickets in New York was scandalous. It was even worse than it was here in 1908. Had we gone through with our investigation at that time and put one or two men out of baseball, the present ticket scandal would never have taken place.

"The scalpers in New York had all the tickets they wanted. You could buy any number of seats in one bunch. How they got them I cannot explain. There may be something important develop from the present scandal, but we have no time to take that up now."

Johnson will return to the East today.

WRAY'S COLUMN

GETTING THE MONEY.

WHILE the world's series will probably not be interfered with by the scandals and delays that have accompanied the playing of the 1911 championship, it would not be surprising to see one change made in the conduct of the big show next season. This is in the matter of the prices asked of the public.

There seems no logical reason why the regulation charges made for big League games should be lifted beyond a trifle needed to cover the expense to which the National Commission is put in handling the games.

• • •

JUST SUITS MR. SCALPER.

THE advancing of the prices to $2 and $3 for reserved seats only catches the eye of the speculator. The higher the price charged by the baseball heads the greater the commission he can demand and get.

There is no doubt that the big gains to be made have induced many to stand in line and get tickets which they transfer to the speculator, who afterwards must make up this middleman's profit. Were the initial prices lower, the inducement to traffic in pasteboards to the games would be financially less, and consequent scalping would become infrequent.

• • •

OVERCHARGING THE FAN.

IN any case why should the fan, granting he can purchase the ticket at the box office price, pay $3 for what costs him 75c or $1 during the season? Park capacities, at this figure, would suffice to pay off every expense, give the clubs a handsome profit and net the players say $1000 each for winning. This is a substantial return, when their annual salaries are considered.

At the present rate of dividend the players will get about $3000 each for winning the present series. This, in some cases, equals or exceeds the annual contract price of the player.

• • •

CAN'T PLEASE BOTH.

MR. GEORGE CAMPBELL: To be a successful writer on baseball, dear sir, practice daily in the art of balancing two filled water pails, one on each shoulder, while running a hundred-yard dash. When you have accomplished this feat without spilling anything, you will only have to bear in mind this fact: If, of two rivals, John Smith and Bill Jones, you praise J. Smith, the Jones faction will hand you the grand slam, while the Smith contingent will elect you president, if possible. And if you back-pedal on Smith, just reverse the boots and the boosts.

Otherwise your observations on the subject are O K.

• • •

AT LAST A SANE GAME.

ONE of the features of the present football season is the almost total absence of serious injury on the gridiron. Perhaps one had best knock on wood, after that optimistic statement, for Jinx is not yet dead. Nevertheless, it appears that the slaughter-house football of six or seven years ago has been eliminated, without utterly taking the spine from the American game. On the showing this season, the death roll will be cut down to a minimum; in fact, if there is one, it will be accounted for by the presence in the fray of weaklings and unfit men who should not be there. Football has no protection against such cases; and must continue to suffer in reputation for mishaps to such as these.

• • •

GOOD TO LOOK UPON.

Still, the football of the old "low and hard" boys of 10 years ago, when the ball was marched down the field by inches—and sheer nerve and endurance—was of the more pleasing sort, in a way. There was a minimum of chance in that game, where the present-day football approximates something of the uncertainty of baseball. Moreover, the scoring is now cut down, by taking away from the rushing power of the modern attack; the game is forced open and kicking and passing take the place of consistent ground gaining by carrying the ball.

There was a time when it was almost a disgrace to surrender possession of the ball—and that was the time when team strength was a definitely measurable quantity. It was so much so that comparative scores would give an almost certain line on relative strength of teams.

But it was a hard school, and many was the life and limb sacrificed on its altar. The old game's superiority was certainly not worth the price to be paid.

Tips and Cues

Vincent Botto and Capt. Lawrence are tied for the lead in the elimination three cushion billiard tournament, each having won two games and lost none. Calmer plays Broadhead at 8 p. m. Monday.

A coal men's pocket billiard tournament will open at Peterson's Monday night and Charley Peterson is also scheduled to engage in two matches of the 18.2 balk line tournament at his hall Monday, meeting Higbee at 3 p. m. and Schunaker at 8 p. m.

Bastian and Obert will clash in the business men's straight rail billiard tournament at the Grand Monday. Schumacher, Bruegeman, and Vornbrock, each with a record of three games won and none lost, are setting the pace. Herbert, who has won four games and lost none, is the three-cushion leader. Helmerich and Wolf will be the contestants in Monday's match.

Fisher will meet Lenox Monday afternoon, and Austin and May will cross cues in the three-cushion billiard tournament games at the Hauser Monday. Austin, with three victories and no defeats, is out in front.

Mountain and Warner are booked for a three-cushion billiard tournament game at the Rex Monday. Houser, Meyers and Francis are tied for the lead, each having a quartet of victories and one defeat.

BAN IS PLACED ON FULTON TEAM

The Westminster College football team has probably played its last game with Washington University's eleven. The fact that the Fulton aggregation insisted on playing Saturday's scheduled contest in the rain and on the water-soaked field against the wishes of Coach Cayou probably means a discontinuation of athletic relations between these institutions.

The Washington management was willing to hold over the Westminster squad in St. Louis until Monday, but the visiting men, evidently believing they had a better chance for victory on a soggy field than under normal conditions, insisted on staging the show. They threatened to claim the contest by forfeit unless it was played Saturday.

Diamond Glints

Thanks to Frank Schulte, who started the movement, Chicago fans presented an automobile to Ed Walsh, the White Sox star.

Once again the Sox trimmed the Cubs. It was in an exhibition game for the benefit of a hospital. The managers tried something new. Walsh and White and Sullivan worked for the Cubs, while Brown, Richie and Archer formed the Sox's battery.

Ban Johnson says the world's series will not be discontinued in future years. That means that the fans can begin picking the winner in the 1912 show. It will be staged, Ban says so.

Because Harry Sallee of the Cardinals demanded $20 to pitch for one of the teams, the championship in the Commercial League in Cincinnati remains unsettled. The manager refused to kick in to "Slim Sal."

For the umpteenth time, Jimmy Callahan is mentioned as the manager of the White Sox in 1912. Hugh Duffy is to be shipped to Des Moines, according to the latest rumor.

They do some funny things in Cincinnati. The latest in the baseball line is to trade Manager Griffith for Manager Wallace.

HATCH TOO STRONG FOR ST. LOUIS MARATHONERS

Three St. Louis runners who competed in a 10-mile race at Chicago Saturday returned Monday and Dr. C. W. Bassett, director of athletics at the Missouri A. C., eagerly awaited them at the Missouri A. C., as he wanted to find how it came about that Sidney Hatch of Chicago managed to beat out Joe Bantle, of the M. A. C.

Runners from the Central Y. M. C. A. of St. Louis took second and third prizes, M Gwin finished second, and J. Kayzing third. Pillivant of Chicago was fourth and Bantle fifth. Pillivant won the M. A. C. marathon two years ago while Hatch has won three M. A. C. marathons. Little Bantle beat Hatch in a 15-mile race from Kirkwood to the Fairgrounds park, a short time ago. The M. A. C. ten-mile run will be held the latter part of next month.

The legitimate PAID circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis and its suburbs is greater than that of ALL other English Dailies COMBINED.

"BULL" BRANNON, BARNES STAR, TO JOIN BILLIKENS

Giant Lineman Has Already Matriculated at St. Louis U., and May Play Football.

Big "Bull" Brannon, one of the best linemen seen on a local football field in years, has been a student at St. Louis University for two weeks and is eager to join the varsity. As soon as the athletic board at the university finishes looking up Brannon's record the big fellow will get into the game providing his record is found to be all right.

Brannon weighs 225 pounds, is over 6 feet tall and does not carry an ounce of superfluous flesh. He was a co-star with Johnny Magner at Barnes, and it was mainly because of the work of Magner and Brannon that Coachems was able to make the excellent record that he did.

Brannon is a real bear in the line and on the offense; when switched back to fullback, is almost irresistible. He has great speed for a big man and knows football from A to Z. St. Louis U. needs a big, smashing fullback more than anything else.

Was Not Asked to Join.

If Brannon plays in the line, on defense, and at fullback on the offense, for St. Louis U., he will increase the strength of the team 20 per cent. In fact he will be just about as valuable a man for Bender as Magner would have been. Brannon came to St. Louis U. unsolicited, according to Bender, just as Powell, another former Barnes man, did. To show Brannon's grit it is only necessary to say that in one game at Sportsman's Park while with Barnes he had two ribs fractured. Although taking a chance of having one of the broken bones driven into a lung, he refused to quit and played out the entire half.

Capt. Painter of St. Louis U. had his thumb dislocated in Saturday's game and Moran for a time thought his arm had been broken between the wrist and elbow. Dr. D. C. Todd, who attended him, declared that Moran received a hard bump, but no broken bones. He will be all right in a few days.

The Missouri School of Mines team, from Rolla, Mo., plays St. Louis U. Saturday. Rolla's new coach, Chalmers, watched St. Louis U. play Saturday. Denny, former coach of the team, was taken down with typhoid fever. The Miners lost Macmober, Wagstaff and Andrus, three stars of last year's team, by graduation, and Chalmers says that his eleven will not average over 155 pounds, but is fast. Missouri beat Rolla, 29 to 0, and Rolla defeated the Springfield Normals, 38—0. Rolla will play the Central College team at Rolla Tuesday afternoon.

HARVARD IS BEST OF "BIG THREE," ON 1911 SCORES

Crimson Goal Line Has Not Been Crossed This Year by Opponents.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—With the midseason football mark passed Harvard, West Point and Brown are the only teams with championship aspirations that have not been scored on this season. Yale, Pennsylvania and Cornell have not only been scored upon but they have been beaten. Princeton has escaped a defeat, but two ties mar the record of the orange and black. In one of these tie games Lehigh scored six points off the Tigers.

Strange as it may seem, the only point scored on Yale this year were the six which netted the Army a victory Saturday. The game showed the cadets to have a team that ranks high. But the demonstration took place on a field deep with mud and in a downpour of rain. Just how the teams would compare on a fast field is problematical.

Under the conditions the Army team was the superior. This superiority was shown especially in a comparison of the playing of the ends of the two teams. The cadet wing men were down the field with punts faster than the Blue players and their tackling was harder and surer. In addition the left side of the Yale line was weak before the West Point attacks. It was through there that Benedict made a gain of 15 yards that put the ball in a position from which the army scored.

Hyatt, too, outplayed Merritt, the Yale quarterback. And Dean more than held his own with the Yale kickers, Spalding and Freeman. Many Yale men think that had Capt. Howe been in condition to play there would have been a different story to tell of the game. But Howe was not in, and taking the teams almost man for man and under the conditions of Saturday's game the Cadets played by far the better.

The fact that the Army beat Yale and that the Navy held Princeton to a scoreless tie may have considerable bearing on the disposal of football honors for the year. The victor in the annual Army-Navy contest can lay merited claims to the "championship" in the event of Yale and Princeton beating Harvard. Especially will this be true in the case of the Army, if the Cadets beat the Navy and Yale in turn beats Princeton and Harvard.

"Gaspipe" Tully Joins "All-In" Squad of Local Soccer World

ONE by one the men who helped make soccer history in St. Louis are dropping out. The latest and one of the best known, as well as popular, of the old guard, is John Tully. The setting at Athletic Park Sunday hardly seemed complete without "Gaspipe" displaying his lengthy—as well as broad—self between the goal posts.

It's because of his broadness that the famous goal tender of the champion St. Leos has retired. "Hack" guarded the St. Leos' line until last season, but he no longer can be recognized as "Gaspipe," the monaker handed to him in his palmiest days.

Tully, like most of the other old-timers, is giving way to the younger generation. A soccer fan of five or ten years ago would have been able to call the names of but a half dozen or so of the 44 players in competition Sunday.

Peter Ratican, still a young man, but who has also added much weight and is now playing fullback, is one of the vets. And the biggest surprise of all was the way John, sure "Kink" Finnegan, held his own with the young and spry element.

Most of the present champion St. Leos have been playing several years, but they are young men. That's the reason they have led the way for the other teams who depended on the veterans.

In other words, the soccer teams of the big league are undergoing a reconstruction. As in baseball, the managers realize that it's the youth and speed of the athletes that wins. And the old fellows are being pushed aside.

A more perfect day for the opening of the season couldn't have been asked. It was an ideal afternoon for the matinee and about 2800 fans turned out.

The Irish-American A. C. eleven, the new member of the league, made its debut. Unfortunately for the baby member, it was asked to meet the St. Leos and ran second to the champions. The score was 2—1 and the game as close and exciting as the tally would indicate.

If size counts for anything, the "Tads" are going to cut quite a dash in the league race. Most of the men are big fellows. This is especially true of the back field members. Ponto Palmer is the goalkeeper.

The "Tads" threw an awful scare into the champs in the early section of the opening half, when Burke slammed through a shot. It only tended to awaken the St. Leos, however, and within two minutes after the kick-off, Jimmy Donahue evened it up.

The Columbus Club and Innisfails provided a good contest. Like the other game, the score was 2—1 in favor of the Knights. All the scoring was done in the second half, the winning tally being more or less of a fluke. McNamara ran out to ward off a shot, but the ball took a bad bound and passed him for the winning score.

It's Manager William Foley of the Innisfails. The veteran halfback is doing the figuring and money divvying for his payers. He plans to get into the game only in an emergency.

Bridegroom Klosterman wasn't on hand to see his champions bracketed in the inaugural. Bill is expected home from his honeymoon this week and will relieve "Double" Flynn, manager pro tem.

Secretary Doolling was pleased with the crowd. "We attracted 500 more than we had on opening day last season," said William.

Eight automobiles and their passengers were among others on the side lines.

"Tiny Tim" Cavanagh was also there.

Paul McSweeney, the veteran referee, seemed to be in midseason form. Few of his rulings were protested.

Deteat By Ames Team Has Not Discouraged Tigers in Title Race

Missouri Has Hopes of Gaining Tie With Iowans and Nebraska for Valley Championship.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 23.—The results of Saturday's games in the Missouri Valley show that the Ames team is several lengths ahead in the race for the Missouri Valley title. Nebraska is yet running, but comparative scores give a long margin to the farmer boys.

Minnesota defeated Nebraska, 21 to 0, while the best that the Gophers could do against Ames was 5 to 0. Ames put a damper on the chances of the Missouri Tigers by handing them the short end of a 6 to 3 game. At that, Missouri has a chance, for if she should defeat Nebraska next Saturday and the Cornhuskers should improve enough to win from Ames, there would be a three-cornered tie for the title.

This Ames bunch will be mighty hard for the Nebraska braves to defeat. Ames has a team whose members are practically all in the junior class and have had one year's football experience. There are 18 "A" men on the squad. They are big, heavy men, somewhat slow on offense, but beareats on defense.

Touchdown Called a Fluke.

Their score against Missouri, however, was made in a manner that must be designated as lucky, if not fluky. Ames kicked a long punt which the Missouri backfielders allowed to hit the ground and Burge picked it up and ran through a clear field for a touchdown. But for this play the Tigers would have won, since Jimmy Shuch put a dropkick over the bars in the last quarter.

The Tigers have a good chance to defeat Nebraska next Saturday. The Cornhuskers are badly battered as a result of their beating by Minnesota and the Tigers are just beginning to develop. Before Hackney was hurt all the team's plays were built around him and within two weeks the entire system of play had to be changed.

The result was that a large part of the work done during the preliminary season was throw away. Of course, if Hackney was in the game—but there is no use crying over spilt milk or crushed shoulders.

Tigers Play Here Twice.

Of more local interest, perhaps, is the coming struggle for the State championship. Two games will have to be taken to decide this title, both played in St. Louis. Missouri plays Washington Nov. 11 and St. Louis U. Nov. 18. At this time there is no use to hazard a guess on the outcome of these games, but it is pretty certain that the St Louis University game will be as close as last year and that Washington will make a much better showing than during the two years past.

McFarland Is Apt to Get Wolgast's Fight With Wells

Promoters Balking About Putting Up $19,000 Purse Before Bout.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Negotiations are under way for a 10-round bout between Packey McFarland, the Chicago boxer, and Matt Wells, the lightweight champion of England, at the Fairmont Club early next month. It is declared that Ad Wolgast, because of unreasonable demands, is in danger of losing his match with Wells, scheduled for Nov. 3, and McFarland is likely to be substituted for the title holder.

The chief contention on which the promoters of the contest have balked is Wolgast's stipulation that the club must put up the entire amount of the purse, $19,000, before the bout or there will be nothing doing.

McFarland and Wells were matched two months ago for a bout in Madison Square, Oct. 19, which had to be canceled when the club's license was revoked.

SEASON IS OPENED IN JUNIOR LEAGUES

The St. Roses and C. B. C. teams were the winners in the opening games of the season in the Amateur League on the C. B. C. campus Sunday. The St. Roses won from the Visitations by the score of 1 to 0, while the collegians triumphed over the Rock Church eleven, 2 to 1.

In the Junior League games on the campus, the C. B. C. juniors defeated the Holy Name eleven, 3—2, while the Visitations won from the J. and J.'s, 3—1.

GUESS WHO?

In the cellar here I sit
And I like it, aber nit.
The apartments are so chilly and so damp;
And I think it's a disgrace
For it's not the proper place
Of residence for any city champ.

O, the walls are moist and cold.
And they're covered o'er with mold.
And the chills are running up and down my spine;
And the upshot of it is
I have got the rheumatis,
So it's to the upper story now for mine!

I've been living here for years,
'Till it finally appears
As though I had a mortgage on the shack;
But I'm going to say adieu
And, if ever I skiddoo,
You can bet your life I'm never coming back!

So, I'll wait until the spring,
When the little birdies sing,
And they come to open up the cellar door;
Then my troubles all will cease
For I'm going to sell the lease
And forsake my cellar home forever more.

Why not make the season from Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, thereby including Christmas, New Year's and St. Patrick's day, not to mention St. Valentine's and April Fool day? Ebbets has also overlooked several minor plums, such as Washington, Lincoln's and Abe Lincoln's birthdays.

MOZART CLUB TO GIVE LEO KELLY ANOTHER CHANCE

St. Louis Boy Probably Will Be Asked to Meet Barada or Farmer Nov. 13.

Jake Barada of St. Joseph, Mo., or "Kid" Farmer of Peoria, Ill., will oppose a local boxer, in all probability Leo Kelly, at the next boxing show to be held under the auspices of the Mozrat Society, at the Coliseum, Nov. 13. Walter Lavigne, secretary and matchmaker of the club, says that at a meeting to be held at the Coliseum, Monday, it will be decided just what local boxer should prove the best drawing card against out-of-town men.

Kelly fought Barada at St. Joseph, Mo. Barada is a hard man to beat, and it was even at the end of 15 rounds between them. Kelly met Farmer only a few weeks ago, at Alton. Kelly started late, but in the last two rounds he had Farmer groggy and holding on. Because of Farmer's good work in the first four rounds when Kelly let his foxy opponent do most of the leading, Referee Mal Doyle gave Farmer the decision.

The Edwardsville A. C. will open its season inside of the next two weeks, but Matchmaker Simon Kellerman has not arranged his full card for the show. The Edwardsville A. C. brought off a number of bouts last winter, and during the summer held boxing shows on the steamer Keystone State on the river, one bout between Leo Kelly and Everett Gray going 20 rounds.

Harry Sharpe will be referee for the amateur bouts at the Missouri A. C. Friday and Saturday nights, for which there are over 60 entries. The boys are training at clubs all over the city. Eddie Randall will confer with Dr. Bassett Monday for the purpose of selecting the judges for the tournament.

Pierce Matthews, a former local amateur fighter, who appeared in bouts at Kansas City and throughout the West, has been matched with Leo Kelly for a six-round bout at the Theatrical Social Club, 4000 South Broadway, on Oct. 26. Matthews claims he has improved since his last appearance in St. Louis, but he will have to step lively to keep out of the way of Kelly's hard punches, as from now on the "Horseshoer" declares that he is going to try to knock out every man he meets.

Wabadas Are Challenged.

The Rexall baseball team of Granite City, Ill., which claims to have beaten the Penrose nine, winners of the pennant in the Post-Dispatch Public School League, wants to play the Wabadas for the 14-15-year-old championship. The Rexalls won 20 out of 22 games this season, but claim that they cannot get the Wabadas to meet them. Earl J. Brogan, 2138 G street, Granite City, Ill., is manager of the Rexalls.

A CERTAIN CURE FOR CATARRH

The mucous membranes of the nose and throat are exposed to the irritating influence of dust, impure air, etc., and for this reason are the places Catarrh usually first manifests itself. But these are simply exciting causes, the inflammation and discharge being really produced by an impure and vitiated condition of the blood. It is well enough to use some local treatment to cleanse these membranes, but any one can readily see that if the inflammatory matter is left in the blood, such treatment cannot possibly have any permanent effect. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impure catarrhal matter and irritating germs and at the same time builds up the system by its fine tonic effects. When S. S. S. has purified the blood, the mucous surfaces are all nourished and made healthy. There can be no inflammation of the membranes then, because the blood is pure, and every tissue receives nourishment instead of irritating matter. Our book on Catarrh will interest every sufferer of this disease, and it will likewise give proper advice as to what is best to use as a local aid while S. S. S. is purifying the blood. This book is free to all, and we will also be glad to give any special advice you may feel you need. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Post-Dispatch's Complete Daily Record of Markets and Finance

STOCKS CLOSE STEADY AFTER IRREGULAR DAY

Professionals Hold the Market by Manipulating Some of the Leaders.

MONEY MARKETS ACTIVE

Paris Again Is a Bidder for Funds at New York Banks.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The focus of financial interest today was elsewhere than on the New York Stock Exchange. Perhaps the point of principal importance was Europe, where markets were stronger throughout, the French rentes moving up ⅜, and consols nearly ¼, on the belief that the Morocco affair was about to be eliminated as a disturbing influence in politics in finance.

"Next to this, the cotton market was the interesting field of activity.

Sellers Raid Cotton.

"This time, a real demonstration by the 'bear party' made itself felt in the checking of the recovery in prices which began last week, and which gained so considerable a momentum Saturday.

"The immediate explanation of the renewed decline today was the fact that the 'killing frost' predicted Saturday had not quite materialized.

"But it may also be suggested that there were other reasons than frost for last week's recovery in the price of cotton, and that those reasons, chiefly the fact of an oversold market, and an over-discounted situation, are still in evidence.

So far as concerned the stock market, it rose about half a point, then lost the greater part of its advance, leaving the general list with net changes for the day irregular. Trading was very inactive, and prices moved only under the impulse of professional speculation.

Banks Still Lending.

"Our banks continued to lend to Europe today, and the foreign exchange market was again very firm. In particular, the banks made large loans to Paris institutions.

"The Bank of France secured virtually all the gold which arrived at London from South Africa today; in spite of which fact, the London discount rate declined a trifle.

"But the relative position of the London and Paris money markets, the plethora at London while hoarding is still going on in France, and, more particularly, the exceptionally high reserves of the Bank of England, at the moment when the French bank is making the poorest autumn showing in three years, make it perfectly natural that the Transvaal consignments should be diverted to the south shore of the channel.

The Paris Market.

"All this, however, keeps interest alive in the very singular mixture of politics and finance which has put the Paris market in a position such as the present generation has probably not seen, at least not since the Secretan syndicate went down in 1889.

"In this same connection it should be noticed that advices from the best foreign quarters today indicated that the tedious Morocco dispute between France and Germany is near an official settlement.

"When a formal and final announcement comes to that effect, we shall have some rather unusually interesting movements on the Paris market, and we shall know for certain whether the recent very abnormal incidents at financial Paris were wholly due to the war scare or whether there was something else. In any case, there will be some change in the situation."

DETAILED REPORTS OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The drift of prices was downward at the opening of the stock market today. Trading was light, however, and losses were confined to small fractions. The only point of activity in the list was United States Steel, which opened with a sale of 5000 shares at a decline of ⅜. Northern Pacific lost ⅝ and Union Pacific and Erie 1st preferred ½.

Buying orders were distributed in United States Steel after the price touched 59. When the shorts discovered evidence of support they covered freely and sent up the price to 60. Equal recoveries from the lowest were made by Union Pacific, Reading, Lehigh Valley and St. Paul. Business became quiet after prices generally had mounted to fractionally above last week's closing.

The narrow movement of stocks during the morning offered no inducement for speculative operations and trading was unusually light. The lower range of prices sent over from London caused a shading of quotations at the opening, but after a brisk recovery the list remained firm. United States Steel was again the leader in point of activity and the bears succeeded in forcing it to 59, but were not able to hold it there. A slow hardening movement sent prices to a still higher level in the second hour. Reading and Chesapeake & Ohio sold a point above Saturday's closing and many other active features about half as much.

Bonds were dull and irregular.

A gain of nearly 4 points in International Harvester furnished the only fluctuation of importance in the early afternoon. Elsewhere the movement was slowly upward, with representative stocks anywhere from ½@1 to a point above last week's close.

Some of the active railroad stocks receded moderately on realizing sales. The lower prices attracted new buying orders and prices soon returned to th best again. New York Air Brake fell 3¼ to 50—the lowest price in years. Recent liquidation of this stock and the convertible 6 per cent bonds had been due to the delay in declaring the usual dividend on the stock.

The market closed steady. Selling orders made their appearance in Union Pacific, and it went off over a point from the highest. United States Steel reacted to under Saturday's closing and Reading also fell back a point. Buying for both accounts stopped the decline and there was a final upturn before the session ended.

NEW YORK MONEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Money on call steady, 2⅜@2½ per cent; ruling rate 2⅜; closing bid 2⅜; offered at 2½. Time loans steady; 60 days, 3¼@3½; 90 days, 3½@3¾; six months, 3¾@4.

Prime mercantile paper 4¾ per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8350 for 60-day bills and 4.8680@4.8585 for demand. Commercial bills 4.82¾. Bar silver 54c. Mexican dollars 45c. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

Demand Great for Cash in Local Money Market.

Interest rates are still verging on the 5 per cent average, although shipments of funds to certain points in the St. Louis territory evidenced a greater demand for cash, which may later on prove a decidedly important influence. It is believed, however, that deposits are generally of a quite satisfactory nature. There is no doubt that the banks are well able to handle the situation in its present status.

WEAK CABLES HELP THE BEARS TO LOWER COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 13@21 points under heavy general selling inspired by lower cables than due, reports that the South was offering freely in Liverpool and the appearance of selling orders around the local ring.

Weather advices indicated that frosts had been more or less general in the South since Saturday morning, but there seemed to be a feeling that killing temperatures had actually occurred at comparatively few points, and that the weather was not becoming warmer.

At any rate, some of Saturday's buyers on frost predictions were heavy sellers during the early trading, and the market after the opening ruled nervous and irregular within 6 or 7 points of the initial figures.

With the Western belt forecast calling for warmer weather, and with numerous private advices coming in from the South to the effect that the frosts had caused no damage, but in many instances had been beneficial, the market turned easier late in the forenoon under continued liquidation by buyers of last week and more aggressive selling by local bears, who were predicting that the census report on Wednesday would show such a heavy ginning as to leave little doubt of a surplus crop, regardless of the frost damage. Prices at midday were about 22 to 25 points net lower. The market closed quiet.

Spot nominal. Estimated receipts of cotton at the ports today, 79,000 bales, against 75,409 last week and 57,819 last year. NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Oct. 23.—Comparative receipts:

	Today.	Week Ago.	Year Ago.
Cattle	7,000	13,764	8,500
Hogs	11,000	9,148	5,098
Sheep	4,000	4,027	4,333
Horses and mules	1,650	2,600	1,500

NATIVE CATTLE—Receipts today showed the moderate total of 3000 head. The market was generally steady. Receipts at other Western points were heavy, due to liberal range cattle offerings. The local top in the forenoon was $8. Calves sold up to $9. Stocker and feeder trade showed very little change from last week's close and was fairly active.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—The run today was not as large as last Monday, yet the total made up a right good supply. Market was slow getting under way. Early sales looked steady, but the feeling was none too good. Range cattle supplies at other Western points were heavy enough to create a sympathetic feeling here.

HOGS—The market opened on a good, steady basis and with a good supply of hogs on sale so far as numbers are concerned, but good hogs with any weight to them were scarce. The top was $6.75 and the bulk went at $6.45@6.60, which is the same as the bulk brought at the close of last week. The butchers and shippers purchased all of the good hogs around 200 lbs and over, for which they paid $6.60 or better, while the plainer grade hogs went to the packers at $6.30@6.55 as a rule. Best lights under 160 lbs sold at $6@6.50, fair grades $5@6, pigs $4@5.50 and rough throwout sows and stags $6@6.35. The close of the market was a little quiet and prices not quite as good as earlier in the day.

EARMUFFS ON TICKERS.

Pit traders on the Merchants' Exchange thought they were deaf Monday, when they arrived on the floor and failed to catch the merry hum of the "tickers" that carry the sales quotations of outside markets.

It took only a moment to discover, however, that their ears were all right, but that ear muffs had been placed on the "tickers" to deaden the sound.

There was a howl of dismay from several traders, who understand the telegraph code, and were enabled to beat the quotations posted on the blackboard several seconds by reading the sounds.

Several houses had educated their "floor boys" to read the wires, and used them as runners to keep in advance of the average quotations.

These boys now will be looking for new jobs, unless they can develop very quickly a "wireless ear."

Wheat was lower Monday, traders taking profits on the long side and the commission-house demand falling away sharply on the advances. There was not much in the day's developments to create bullish sentiment, and statistical news was bearish.

The Liverpool market failed to follow our advance of Saturday. The unexpected heavy shipments from Russia and the Danube, as well as America, together with the favorable advices from Argentine, causing realizing. Later there was a further decline abroad, after which the undertone became firm, with large houses supporting and values advanced with offers light.

Advices from Australia were of reduced estimates and continued dry weather. There was a quiet demand for spots, but prices held firm, with a good demand for forward shipments.

Liverpool wheat futures closed unchanged to ⅛d lower. Corn, ⅛d lower. Budapest wheat ⅛d up. Berlin ½c lower. Antwerp ⅝c lower. Paris ⅜c up, and flour unchanged to ⅜c higher.

Liverpool wheat stocks increased 96,000 bu for the week to 3,320,000 bu. Corn increased 9000 bu to 1,794,000 bu.

The world's wheat shipments overran the estimates and Russian and Danubian offerings showed a tendency to increase. Broomhall cabled there is renewed talk of a reduction of the import duty on corn by Germany.

World's wheat shipments in detail showed:

COUNTRY.	Last Week.	Previous Week.	Last Year.
American	3,320,000	3,448,000	3,568,000
Danubian	2,904,000	1,160,000	1,856,000
Russian	1,824,000	1,328,000	5,792,000
Australian	912,000	1,176,000	624,000
Indian	344,000	584,000	1,032,000
Argentine	624,000	472,000	840,000
Chile and North Africa	232,000	264,000	88,000
Austria-Hungary	......	56,000	56,000
Totals	10,160,000	8,488,000	13,856,000
CORN.
Danubian	901,000	213,000	85,000
American	406,000	593,000	699,000
Russian	332,000	366,000	76,000
Argentine	......	......	3,689,000
Totals	1,639,000	1,172,000	4,549,000

Wheat on passage for the week increased 632,000 bu to 29,016,000 bu. Corn decreased 867,000 bu to 3,961,000 bu.

Minneapolis wheat cars today totaled 661, last week 631, last year 564. Duluth had 184, last week 158, last year 139. Winnipeg had 1765, last week 1544, last year 1249. Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 225,000 bu in two days.

Chicago wheat receipts today were 76,800 bu, against 67,200 bu last year. Shipments 261,700 bu, against 40,200 bu last year.

Kansas City wheat receipts today were 196,800 bu, against 376,800 bu last year. Shipments, 69,600 bu, against 194,000 bu last year.

Local wheat receipts today were 72,656 bu, or 514 sacks, 64 cars local, 7 through; last year, 123,000 bu, or 101 cars local, 11 through. Corn receipts 114,000 bu, or 76 cars local, 19 through; last year, 48,000 bu, or 34 cars local, 6 through. Oats receipts, 102,000 bu, or 49 cars local, 11 through; last year, 105,400 bu, or 52 cars local, 10 through.

Total primary wheat receipts today were 1,491,519 bu, against 1,567,467 bu last year. Shipments, 852,962 bu, against 704,700 bu last year.

Corn was weak and lower on general selling. Weather over the belt was clear and cold, and the trade expects an increased movement. The cash demand was less urgent and falls off on the strong days. Liverpool prices were slightly lower, but there was some buying on strength in spots and the small percentage of the world's shipments going to the United Kingdom.

Oats were quiet and lacked speculative support.

Montreal wired: "Receipts for two days in Winnipeg total nearly 1800 cars, of which there are about 1000 cars that are good milling wheat. Millers are buying the lower grades now, and say results are good. Cables are about 2 cents out of line."

Buenos Ayres wired: "Weather favorable for growing crop. Argentine newspapers have just published a report that for the winter of 1911-12 there will be for export 3,500,000 tons of wheat. From information at hand, great preparations are being made in anticipation of a large wheat crop."

The Central Statistical Committee estimates the Russian wheat crop at 180,000,000 bu.

Export clearances of wheat and flour today were 602,000 bu; of corn, 43,000 bu; of oats, none.

The domestic wheat visible increased 1,534,000 bu for the week. Corn decreased 551,000 bu. Oats increased 60,000 bu.

The total visible supply now shows: Wheat, today, 41,815,000; last year, 37,978,000; corn, 3,115,000; last year, 2,996,000; oats, 21,768,000; last week, 16,989,000.

Changes: Wheat, increase last week, 3,583,000; increase last year, 405,000; corn, decrease last week, 1,480,000; decrease last year, 800,000; oats, increase last week, 438,000; increase last year, 897,000.

Cash wheat steady and in good demand.

Cash corn ¼c to ½c lower for mixed and yellow, and slow. White some stronger, with demand good.

Cash oats steady to ½c higher for white grades; fair demand. Mixed oats steady.

STRIKERS IN RIOT AT CENTRALIA SHOPS

Guard Is Injured and Two Men Are Held for Federal Court.

CENTRALIA, Ill., Oct. 23.—In a fight between strikers or strike sympathizers and railroad guards William Grimes of Louisville, Ky., a guard, was knocked down and rendered unconscious and one of his antagonists was carried away by companions. Guards left the shop yards armed with hammers and clubs, but were restrained by city policemen.

George Cherwood and J. R. Yoder have been arrested charged with violating the injunction and taken before the Federal Court.

THOMAS J. REID DEAD

He Was President of the Reid Shoe Co.

Thomas J. Reid, president of the T. J. Reid Shoe Co., died of cancer of the stomach Sunday at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. L. T. Reid, of 3416 Laclede avenue. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at St. Xavier's Church, of which Reid had been a parishioner for 43 years.

Reid was born in Ballaghdrine, Ireland, in 1852. He came to St. Louis when a boy and was educated at St. Louis University. In 1872 he went into the shoe business with his brother, M. W. Reid. The business was incorporated in 1892. Reid never married.

MILKMAN ROBBED OF $19

Armed Men Hold Him Up in the Street.

Bert Ford of 5704 Theodosia avenue, while driving a milk wagon along Armand avenue, between Jefferson and Ohio avenues, at 5 a. m. Monday, was ordered by two men to halt.

"What for?" inquired Ford.

"You'll soon find out," said one of the pair, drawing a revolver and pointing it at the milkman.

Ford got out of his wagon and was robbed of $19. One of the robbers wore a gray sweater and the other had a blue shirt.

TWO CATS ONLY VICTIMS AS OWNER TRIES TO DIE

Neighbor Calls Policeman in Time to Save Life of Grocer Who Turned on Gas.

DOORS WERE BARRICADED

Writes Letter to Wife in Italy Before Attempting to Kill Himself.

Two black cats which had been Pasquale Santalucia's only companions, lay dead under his bed when Santalucia was found almost suffocated by gas in a small room back of his grocery store at 912 High street at 7 a. m. Monday.

Santalucia revived when carried into the open air, but soon became unconscious and remained in that condition after arriving at the city hospital. Physicians there believe he will recover.

William Zeve, a rival grocer at 920 High street, noticed that Santalucia had not opened his store and went to awaken him. There was no answer to repeated knocks on the door.

Santalucia Unconscious.

Zeve notified the police and with Patrolman Hunt broke open the door. Gas fumes pouring out of the room caused Hunt and Zeve to retreat. When it was safe to enter they found Santalucia unconscious in his bed.

The two black cats lying close together and with their front paws about each other as though in a last embrace were dead on the floor.

Near the bed dangled a rubber tube which had been disconnected from a small gas heater. The key of the gas fixture was turned on. Two other gas jets in the grocery also were turned on.

Door Barricaded.

Pasquale had barricaded his bedroom door with a board to prevent anyone from breaking in. There was no evidence that anyone else had been in the place, as all the doors were locked and securely bolted from the inside.

On a counter in the store was a letter which Santalucia had written to his wife and three children in Italy. He wrote that he had sent his wife 50 francs in August and asked if she had received it. There was nothing in the letter to indicate that he meant to end his life. He expressed sorrow over the death of Anna, the godmother of two of his children, and closed the letter: "Every your dear husband. A million kisses."

Santalucia was 45 years old. With his two cats he took possession of the store six months ago.

LOW TEMPERATURE TO CONTINUE THIS WEEK

Frost in the Gulf Regions and Snow Around Great Lakes Predicted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Low temperature will prevail this week, according to a bulletin issued by the weather bureau. There are no present indications of a disturbance in the Gulf of Mexico or the West Indies says the statement.

In the United States the temperature will average low for the season over practically all districts from the Rocky Mountains to the coast and there will be frosts Monday in the interior of the Gulf states and in the Ohio valley, and by Tuesday or Wednesday in the middle Atlantic and elevated regions in the South Atlantic states.

The precipitation will be the normal generally. There will be rain or snow on Monday in the region of the great lakes.

The next general disturbance across the country will appear in the northwest Tuesday or Wednesday, advance eastward over the middle west Wednesday night or Thursday and the eastern states about Friday. This will be preceeded by rising temperatures, attended by local areas of precipitation and be followed by a change to considerably older weather.

GROSSCUP PREDICTS FAILURE OF RECALL

Declares State Experiments Will Result in Abolishment of That Issue.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Peter S. Grosscup, whose resignation as Judge of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals took effect today, declared neither the widespread dissatisfaction with the decisions of the courts nor President Taft's statement that the impeachment of a Federal judge who deserved it would be wholesome was responsible for his resignation. He asserted, on the other hand, that the dissatisfaction was but temporary.

"I prophesy that the popular demand for the recall, as applied to judges, will never reach the Federal judiciary, but will bring on a few experiments with state jurists which will result in the abolishment of the principle," he said.

Beware of Imitation!

Every One of Our Corks or Crowns Is Branded

To protect our customers we must expose the dishonorable methods of unscrupulous dealers who offer inferior beer put up in dark-colored bottles the same size and appearance as Schlitz Export bottles but without label.

This imitation is sold as Schlitz Beer, under the pretext that the label has been washed off.

To avoid being served with a cheap, inferior beer, please examine the cork or crown and see that it is branded like those here shown.

Be sure you get what you order and are paying for.
